Hearse Drivers' Union
The Railroad Unions
Jesuits Expelled
Mr. Hoover's Fortune
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—Arriving here, in mild, foggy weather, two typical pieces of modern American news attract attention.

Drivers of hearses and funeral automobiles, organized in a strong, and foolish union, announced that no private citizen would be permitted to drive his own automobile in a funeral procession.

You might say "Chicago's citizens would never tolerate that," but American citizens, even in Chicago, are, as Northcliffe said, very docile. Prohibition, bootlegging and crime have taught them to stand anything. Also, citizens are not organized; hearse drivers are organized.

When United States Attorney George E. O. Johnson buried his mother here Tuesday, his friends, to show respect, joined the procession to the cemetery in their private cars.

The union stopped the funeral, and sent the private cars home.

That was only annoying, and possibly a little humiliating, for high-spirited Chicago.

The next incident, in another funeral procession, was more serious.

The funeral was that of Louis Lakin, 18-year-old captain of a high school basketball team, shot to death last Sunday when he tried to "crash" a dance.

A private automobile, filled with high school pupils, joined the funeral procession, and was seen by the union hearse driver.

He stopped the funeral, and forced the young people to pull out of line, regardless of the fact that a heavy coal truck was coming in the opposite direction. In the crash, Dolly Rand, 17-year-old high school girl, was killed, nine other high school children were injured, two dangerously hurt.

On two later occasions, the same funeral was stopped, for union warnings. The corpse might well ask, "Am I being buried or am I organising a union?"

Mr. Green, head of the Federation, will warn the hearse union that extremes often lead to dangerous competition.

Some Chicagoan might organize a "cremate you in your own home, bury the ashes in your own backyard" enterprise, to make funerals peaceful.

The other typical "incident" is regular news. Jack De Marco, bootlegger by profession, gave a party at Rockford, Ill., to celebrate his release from Leavenworth penitentiary.

Three men, entering while the phonograph was crooning, asked, "Where's De Marco?" showed badges and said they were prohibition agents. De Marco knew better. His face turned white and stayed white. Five shots killed him, after his wife, four children and the guests had been forced into another room. Three shots were fired into the back of his head as he lay face down on the floor.

Legs Diamond's numerous recoveries from being shot make it necessary for gunmen to take infinite pains.

De Marco had "squealed," and in his world you die for that.

Traveling from New York to Chicago, and on to the Pacific Ocean, starting this time on the New York Central's "Advance Century," a few weeks ago on the Pennsylvania's "Broadway Limited," you realize the national value of the great railroad unions, as foe of a funeral-blackmailing racketeer union as prohibition is from temperance.

In spite of bad times, less employment and with wage reductions planned, the work of running a train weighing millions of pounds 1000 miles in 20 hours through all kinds of weather, is attended to skillfully, conscientiously, passengers sleeping soundly, in absolute security.

Only well organized men, proud of their work and their independence, could build up such an institution as the American railroad system. Instead of being demoralized by conditions that have upset and "rattled" so many of our "best minds," railroad union men are intensely concentrated on their work, the safety of the train and the passengers.

American railroad management justifies anything that the government may do to help tide over present conditions for which the roads are not responsible. If government can afford five hundred millions to help finance repair its mistakes, it might well afford twice as much for the roads, that are the victims of industrial conditions.

Few realize what has been done and spent to create and constantly improve the railroads of America.

George M. Pullman was proud of his one car, that carried Lincoln from Chicago to Springfield, Ill., Pullman selling

EX-CLERK SHOT COP FOR 'HARD LOOK'

Youth Admits Killing Attleboro Officer and Wounding Another in Auto

Attleboro, Jan. 21—An erstwhile grocery clerk in the garb of a small-time actor confessed today that he shot and killed Patrolman Edward Gobin and wounded Patrolman Laurence Johnson here last night.

Roland G. Bosquet, 26, of Norton, admitted he was the "back seat killer."

He said a "hard look" from Johnson and the fear he might be shot led him to open fire on the officers from the rear seat of Gobin's car after they had arrested him on suspicion of molesting women.

He shook like a leaf and cried like a baby during his confession as the false bravado, which apparently masked a fear complex, slipped from him.

He would not explain what he was doing with a gun, but the revolver with which he killed one policeman and wounded another was originally purchased to protect his father's Attleboro grocery against holdup men, he said.

He was arrested in Norton by State Trooper Edward DePetteu. He had eluded a posse of several hundred troopers, police and citizens after the shooting. He threw the murder weapon away, drove to Providence, drove back to Attleboro and was going home when apprehended.

STAGE 'EXPERIMENT'

Sullen and uncommunicative he was brought here for questioning. He looks 40 years old. His is dark-haired and partly bald. He wore no hat. He had a light, tight-fitting overcoat over a dark suit; his tie was a ready-tied bow on an elastic.

Asst. Atty. Crossley, Chief Flanagan and State Detective Clemmey obtained his confession by a psychological experiment.

They questioned him only long enough to determine his identity, then sent for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elphege Bosquet of 20 Noyes st., Norton.

His father and gray-haired, bewildered mother arrived and were questioned at length, while he was kept separated from them in an ad-

FELON HUNT IN NEW HAWAII OUTRAGE

Japanese Woman Attacked by Man Identified as Escaped Convict

Honolulu, Jan. 21 (AP)—Honolulu was aroused today to a fresh man hunt by another attack upon a woman.

Mrs. Toka Okazaki, 29, mother of two children, complained to police she had been assaulted near John Rodgers Airport by a man she identified through a photograph as Daniel Lyman, escaped Portuguese-Hawaiian murderer.

The assault occurred as authorities were preparing to place before the grand jury evidence in the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian alleged attacker of a navy officer's wife, and as the territorial Legislature, in special session, was seeking a formula for better law enforcement to overcome hoodlumism in Honolulu.

THIRD ASSAULT CASE

It was the third serious assault case reported to authorities since last September when Mrs. Thomas R. Massie, strolling alone early in the morning after leaving a party, was the victim of five youths. The five later were tried, the jury disagreeing.

Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs Granville R. Fortescue of New York and Washington; her husband, Lieut. Massie, U. S. N., and two enlisted men, Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, are charged with slaying Kahahawai.

Mrs. Okazaki said she went motoring last evening with Takeo Harimoto, driving toward the airport, which is six miles from the center of the city. Returning, they had paused near the entrance of the air field, when a shot was heard.

ROBBED AND ATTACKED.

Harimoto said he looked out of the car and was stunned with a blow from a revolver. Recovering, he said the gunman made him back the automobile about 50 feet, get out, and march to the nearby railroad tracks, to which he was bound with fish line.

Mrs. Okazaki said the gunman then returned toward the car, caught her when she tried to escape, robbed her of $1.25 and assaulted her. Then he demanded:

"Do you know who I am?"

She said no, and he asked her address. Putting her in the car, he drove her to her home in the Palama district, she said, and then disappeared. Meanwhile, Harimoto, freeing himself, reached a telephone and called police.

ESCAPED THREE WEEKS AGO

Three weeks have passed since Lyman escaped from Oahu penitentiary in company with Lui Kaikapu, who was sent back there for life after assaulting a white school teacher during his few hours of liberty.

Actress, Losing, Tries to Kill Banker

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 20 (AP)—Florika Alexandrescu, an actress, who lost her savings of $24,000 in the collapse of the Broser bank last summer, resorted to direct action today.

She invaded the bank, police said, and attempted to kill the president. Failing in that she laid waste the office.

50 More Bank Indictments Returned

All records for indictments in a single case in Suffolk County were broken today when the grand jury returned more than 50 additional indictments in the Industrial Bank & Trust Co. case, making a total of more than 113 in this investigation.

The jurors filed into the Superior courtroom where Judge Louis S. Cox was presiding and the foreman handed an armful of documents to the clerk.

Members of the clerical force of the court had worked most of the night putting the papers in proper form.

These indictments are secret, like all previous ones returned in the case of the closed bank, but it was learned on good authority that, like the others, they involved individuals of high standing in the community.

After appearing before Judge Cox the jurors again returned to their room for further deliberations, indicating that they are not yet finished with the case and will report further indictments later.

TOWN HALL IN GRAFTON FIRED

Grafton, Jan. 21—Possibility that the Worcester firebug who set nine fires in four days may have moved over to Grafton because of Worcester's heavy police and vigilante guard was seen early today when the Grafton Town Hall was ignited by a firebug.

Mrs. Helen Glad was returning home shortly after midnight when she saw flames flickering at the rear of the building and saw a man running away.

She gave the alarm and firemen extinguished a blaze that had been set up against the rear of the building.

TWO BILLION RELIEF BILL IS RUSHED

Final Draft Completed and Hoover Will Probably Get It Tomorrow to Sign

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The final draft of the reconstruction finance corporation measure was signed today by Senate and House conferees and they planned to push it speedily through both houses to the President.

As the bill was completed after two days of conferences it became known that Bernard M. Baruch, most prominently mentioned Democratic possibility as a director of the $2,000,000,000 corporation, cannot be named under the terms of the bill.

The measure provides that of the seven directors, not more than one shall come from the same Federal Reserve district. Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board and chairman of the Finance Corporation Board, is a member ex-officio. His appointment bars Baruch, as both come from the New York district.

HURLEY TURNED DOWN

A last minute chance in the measure to permit the appointment of Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, another Democrat, sought by Charles G. Dawes, president of the corporation, was refused. The conferees took the position it would be best to have the directorship thoroughly representative geographically. Both Hurley and Dawes are from Chicago.

The appointment of Angus McLean, former Governor of North Carolina, as a Democratic director appears likely.

All three of the directors remaining to be named will be Democrats under the terms of the bill. It requires that no more than four of the seven can belong to the same political party.

TO BE RUSHED ALONG.

Already on the board are four Republicans—Dawes and the following, ex-officio: The secretary or undersecretary of the treasury, Gov. Meyer and the federal farm loan commissioner.

The measure was completed last night by the 12 conferees. No changes were made today except in punctuation. Its proponents hope for final passage of the measure tomorrow. President Hoover is ready to act on it quickly.

Parents of Deserted Tots Sought in River

Police searched the Charles river today in the belief that a parent or parents of two abandoned Campridge children might have sought death after the babies were left on the steps of the Harvard square police station.

Capt. Albert Chapman, in charge of the Charles river basin station of the Metropolitan police, ordered the search for a mile on each side of Lars Anderson bridge.

The abandoned children, the boy little more than a year old and the girl barely three, are at Cambridge City Home, Concord ave. Only the little girl can talk. She says her name is "Virginia." That's all she knows.

That the children had tender care until they were left with police was evidenced in the warm clothing they wore.

LIQUOR JUROR STANDS PAT ON 'BRIBE'

Maley, Accused in Rum Case, Says He, Not Jailed Man, Sought Trial Favor

In the face of assertion by another of four liquor defendants that Thomas Quigley, brother of Mayor Lawrence Quigley of Chelsea, had nothing to do with attempting to influence a juror in the liquor case, the juror repeated today his charge that he was offered pay by Quigley.

Dennis Murphy of Revere st., Revere, one of the liquor defendants, was jailed for contempt of Superior Court yesterday in connection with the alleged attempt at jury fixing, and a summons issued for Thomas Quigley.

MALEY TAKES BLAME

Quigley appeared in court today and heard Arthur Maley, a second liquor defendant, declare that it was he and not Murphy who was introduced by Quigley to Samuel Kaufman of Orange st., Chelsea, a juror in the panel before which the liquor case was being tried.

Maley said he asked Quigley to make the introduction to Kaufman, a Chelsea furniture dealer, and that after the introduction Quigley went away and was not present when Maley asked Kaufman to "help me out" in considering the case with the other jurors.

JUROR STANDS PAT

Maley asserted that he told Kaufman that he, Maley, was being persecuted by Boston police for something he did not do. At no time, declared Maley, did he promise Kaufman money.

Despite the Maley testimony, Kaufman again took the stand and reiterated his charge that it was Murphy to whom he was introduced by Quigley and that it was Quigley who told Kaufman to hold out for 48 hours if necessary, "and you will get paid for it."

This man is Roland G. Bosquet, 26, of Norton. Perhaps he's crying because he shot and killed Patrolman Edward Gobin of Attleboro, who had a wife and two children. Perhaps he's just sorry for himself. He confessed he killed Gobin and wounded Patrolman Johnson—shooting them from behind in an auto—because he was afraid they were going to "let him have it." He used a gun, he said, he bought to guard his father's grocery store against holdup men, but denied he'd turned holdup man

GUARD CHINESE IN 'WASH WAR'

Threats of a Chinese laundry war in Waltham resulted today in a police guard being placed over the shop of Charlie Joe in Main st. Threats of reprisals for his price-cutting have been received.

One act of reprisal has taken place already, according to Charlie Joe's complaint.

When he failed to heed a first warning to stop price cutting, a pair of white duck trousers was delivered at his shop, and not until after the trousers had been washed with other clothing was it discovered that some dye had been sewed in one of the pockets.

Charlie Joe said that all the clothing in that wash was ruined, costing him about $125 for replacement.

ELY'S BANK BILL COMMENDED

A large number of representatives of co-operative banks, both large and small, throughout the state, at a hearing today before the legislative committee on banks and banking, strongly endorsed Gov. Ely's recommendation for a central co-operative bank.

"Never has a co-operative bank gone to the wall in Massachusetts," said F. O. Whitney, vice-president of the Merchants Co-operative Bank of Boston. "One liquidated but it paid 100 per cent.

"That is a record to be proud of and we want to see it maintained."

The Governor's recommendation is embodied in a legislative bill now before the committee, the features of which were revealed for the first time.

All co-operative banks in the state would have to be members of the central bank and each would deposit 75 per cent of its reserve funds with the central institution.

$375,000,000 DIRECT JOBLESS AID BILL FAVORED

HOOVER FIGHTS MEASURE AS A 'DOLE'

Committee Reports the La Follette-Costigan Act; "Dems" May Support It in Senate

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—An appropriation of $375,000,000 for direct federal relief for the unemployed was recommended to the Senate today by one of its committees, despite President Hoover's opposition.

The manufacturers committee voted 6 to 2 to report the Costigan-LaFollette bill calling for $125,000,000 for the present winter and $250,000,000 for the next fiscal year.

GIFFORD OPPOSES IT.

The committee's action places squarely before the Senate the proposal for direct appropriations from the Treasury to aid the jobless.

Early consideration by the Senate will be demanded by the bill's sponsors, Senator LaFollette (R.) Wisconsin, and Costigan (D.), Colorado.

President Hoover has strenuously opposed direct appropriations for unemployment relief. Walter Gifford, head of his emergency relief organization, told the committee during hearings that the problem was being adequately met by states, counties and municipalities, aided by private charity.

The vote in the committee indicated the relief bill will have strong support in the Senate from the Democratic side.

DEMOCRATS FOR BILL

The only votes against it were cast by administration Republicans, Senators McNary of Oregon and Goldsborough of Maryland.

Those who voted for the bill, in addition to LaFollette and Costigan, were:

Senators Smith, South Carolina; Wheeler, Montana; Sheppard, Texas, and Bulkley, Ohio, all Democrats.

DEACON MURDER LAID BY POLICE TO '3-X'

Bit of Cloth Wrapped in Paper Bearing Maniac's Note Is the Only Clue Found

Copyright, 1932, International News Service

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (INS)—A blood-stained piece of cloth, a possible murder telltale, today was found near where the slayer of Norman Bechtel, model young church deacon, had abandoned the victim's automobile.

Authorities termed it the only clue uncovered since the body of Bechtel was found yesterday with 11 knife wounds under a cherry tree on the vacant estate of Mrs. Thomas Stokes of Germantown.

Police believe the murderer had wiped his crimson hands on the square of cloth after abandoning the coupe in which Bechtel was stabbed to death.

The blood-marked cloth, still damp, was wrapped in a newspaper featuring a recent letter from "3-X," mass murderer of Long Island, to Capt. William H. Hodgson, chief of the United States secret service in Philadelphia.

This wrapping suggested to police that Bechtel's killer was the letter-writing maniac. The crime was similar in many ways to the "3-X" murders in New York, in which "3-X" had suddenly pounced on victims in automobiles along lonely roads and butchered them.

The "3-X" theory in connection with the Bechtel murder was also supported by relatives of the dead man.

GIRL IS GRILLED

"The ferocity of the attack and the way that Norman was stabbed repeatedly indicate that only a maniac could have done such a thing," said Joseph Bechtel, Eleanor Temple, 23, coworker of Eleanor Temple, 23, co-worker of Bechtel at the Monnonite Church, was questioned for hours by detectives.

GERMAN CHIEF IN WARNING OF 'CATASTROPHE'

Bruening Appeals to World to Prevent Long Delay of Debts Parley

Berlin, Jan. 21 (INS)—In a frantic attempt to avert long postponement of the Lausanne reparations conference, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening addressed a dramatic appeal to foreign statesmen today.

"History," he said, "will find it difficult to judge leniently those statesmen responsible for the catastrophic consequences of postponement of a definite settlement of the reparations problems."

Announcement of the chancellor's appeal was made simultaneously with an official denial of a report published by the London Daily Express that Germany had suggested a plan for payment of reparations in the form of railway bonds.

"Germany," an official said, "is unable to pay anything in any form."

Paris Sees Hope for Moratorium Solution

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—The newspaper Excelsior said today the prospects are good that a friendly solution will be found, as a result of Franco-British negotiations, for the American refusal to consider an extension of the Hoover moratorium on reparations payments.

The Franco-British discussions were progressing favorably, it said. Lord Tyrrel, British ambassador, had a long conversation with Premier Laval. It is likely Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, will stop in Paris next Saturday on his way to Geneva to talk over with the premier the desirability of reducing the Lausanne conference to a meeting of experts only.

Lausanne Postponement Fails to Interest U. S.

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—With its position on debts and reparations now clear to Europe, the American government today assumed an outward attitude to disinterest in the whole problem.

Word of the postponement of the Lausanne debt parley was received by the State Department from London. Officials declined to comment on the grounds the United States had no interest in the affair since it was strictly European conference.

Big Night for a Dime in Berlin, Says Hergesheimer

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Joseph Hergesheimer, who toured Europe for four months without visiting "an art gallery, a museum or a church," is back with a desire to write a novel about Berlin.

The novelist called the German capital the "youngest city in the world today" and indicated he might return there to do his book.

"I think the German women are very amiable," he told an interviewer, "and amiability is a most desirable trait in women.

"The Germans are finding out what we in America must also discover: that it is possible to have poverty without ignominy and intelligence without bigotry.

"In Germany a man can take a girl out and show her a large evening on something like a dime. Prices are calculated in fractions of a cent. They have learned to enjoy themselves without spending."

joining room. He could hear the questions and answers.

His parents involved him in no way. He was "a good boy." He had been "out" last night. They didn't know where. He had never done anything wrong. His reputation was good. Never in any trouble.

They questioned the parents gently but insistently for an hour. Bosquet, in the next room, lost his sullen attitude and began to shiver and his lips began to tremble.

"Come in here," he sent word to the authorities.

They gathered around him and he told his story. Every other word was a sob.

"I have worked off and on for some time in my father's grocery store in James st., Attleboro, but not recently," he began. "The officer I had, that the shooting was done with, I got in Mixed two years ago when I was down there.

"I wasn't planning to rob anybody. I was just standing at the corner of Peck and Florence sts. I had my car parked in front of Masonic Hall on Main st. It's about 250 yards from there.

"The auto with the two cops drove up and they started to ask me what I was doing. I said I wasn't doing anything, and they said they guessed they'd better take me along.

LOOKED AT HIM 'HARD'

"One of the cops (Johnson) looked at me sort of hard and he said, 'I don't like his looks.' He had his hand in his overcoat pocket and I figured they were going to let me have it. They shoved me in the back seat and the cop started to get in back with me. The other one told him to get in front and said I would be all right alone.

"They started off and I pulled the gun and shot at the one that looked hard at me. I hit him and he fell out in the road. The one driving started to pull up and I fired at him. Then I shoved him out of the car and drove away.

"I went back to my car and left the cop's car there, while I beat it. I drove to Providence and then around awhile. I don't remember just where I did go. I threw the gun away while I was driving around. I don't know where I threw it.

CROWD SEES HIM

"Finally I decided to go home. I was driving along Pleasant st. when the state trooper stopped me and started to question me. I guess my answers didn't sound so good because he picked me up and brought me back to the station house."

A few hours after his confession he was taken to court for arraignment. The courtroom was jammed and there was a crowd outside.

Handcuffed, Bosquet was marched from the police station to the courthouse, a distance of several blocks. A crowd trailed behind, quietly. Many in the crowd knew him—had bought groceries from him over the counter in his father's store, had never heard anything bad about him.

Bosquet was nervous. He fidgeted, his hands manacled, moved restlessly, his fingers clenching and unclenching.

The only woman in court was Bosquet's gray-haired mother. She sat with her husband in the front row, while her son, through James B. Leedhan, Jr., local attorney, pleaded not guilty to murder and assault with intent to kill.

Judge Ralph C. Estes remanded *him in New Bedford jail until Feb*ruary 4, when a hearing will be held.

Between his confession and arraignment, Bosquet, still crying, hiding his face now and then with his hands, went with police to the scene of the shooting in a police car.

It is a fact that Bosquet has enjoyed a good reputation. He worked off and on in his father's store, but avidently clerking in an establishment of flour and canned stuffs and meats was too tame for him.

Police said he recently withdrew some $400 in savings from local banks and hid it at home.

He denied being guilty of the recent widespread molestation of local women, but police doubt him. They don't think he had the revolver planning a holdup.

The shooting grew out of activities of police in the past few days against prowlers in the city. Complaints have been pouring into police headquarters from many homes that men were lurking in shadows about the houses and acting suspictously.

Tuesday night Miss Mildred Randall, school teacher, of Dean st., called police and complained that an unidentified man was lurking near her window. Police went to the scene but found no one. There were also several attempted breaks reported in the neighborhood.

Last night when the report was received that a man was acting suspiciously near St. John's church in Bank st., police believed it to be the same prowler and Gobin and Johnson were rushed to the scene in Gobin's auto. They found the man, who later proved to be Bosquet. After questioning him they decided to take him to headquarters.

GUNMAN IN REAR

They placed him in the rear seat and Gobin took his place behind the wheel. Johnson started to get in back beside the suspect but Gobin told him to get in front with him, saying the prisoner was all right and would make no trouble. Johnson obeyed and Gobin started the car.

They were hardly under way when the prisoner suddenly drew a gun and opened fire. Two bullets entered Gobin's body and the third his head. Johnson was struck in the shoulder.

The prisoner then thrust the dead and wounded officers from the auto and sped away. The auto was later found abandoned on the outskirts of the city.

The two officers were picked up by a passing motorist and rushed to the hospital. Gobin was pronounced dead, while it was stated that Johnson was not dangerously wounded.

Gobin was 40 years oud and a veteran in the police department. He leaves a wife and two children. He has done considerable plain clothes work and was noted for his kindly work among juvenile offenders.

Johnson is a reserve officer.

SEARCH STARTED

Word of the shooting was flashed throughout Massachusetts and Rhode Island, many of the reports going over the police teletype system. State troopers were rushed into the district from barracks at Wrentham, Middleboro, Framingham and Rehoboth.

De Pelissa was patrolling the Noyes st. section of Norton with unusual care because the murderer, when questioned by two officers he later shot, had said he lived in Noyes st. The troopers stopped Bosquet's auto in Pleasant st., as the young man was driving to his home. When he was unable to answer the trooper's questions the latter took him to police headquarters here.

PIANIST IS HELD AS BURGLAR

Haverhill, Jan. 21—Charged with breaking and entering the lunch room of Thomas A. Watson of Georgetown on the night of Dec. 30, Louis G. Sidlowski, 22, single, a well known musician of Georgetown, was arraigned before Judge John J. Winn in the Haverhill district court today and he entered a plea of not guilty.

Police who made the arrest declared that Watson tole cigarettes and cigars valued at $50. Police say that finger prints taken in the lunch-room checked up with those taken of Sidlowski. The case was continued until Jan. 28 and the defendant was held in $500 bonds, which he furnished.

JAPS DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT

Tokio, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Japanese Parliament was dissolved by imperial decree today to make way for general election.

The decree was promulgated after Premier Inukai, Foreign Minister Yoshizawa and Finance Minister Takahashi outlined the new government's program to both houses. No opportunity was given the opposition to ask questions.

What Japan desires, Premier Inukai said, is only "to secure peace and order in Manchuria and to make that region safe, both for Chinese and foreigners, and to open it all for economic development."

Both the United States and the League of Nations, he said, have now a much better understanding of Japan's aims thanks to the government's "clarifying reiteration" that Tokio has no territorial aims and stands for the open door.

R. R. Purchases for 1931 Drop 40 P. C.

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Railway purchases of coal, oil and other supplies in 1931 were about 40 per cent less than in the previous year on the basis of a compilation by Railway Age.

the ticket that entitled Lincoln to half of one berth.

It was, for those days, a heavy, strongly built car, finest in America. But the whole car weighed ten thousand pounds less than the wheels and trucks on which a modern Pullman car rolls over steel rails of a weight and quality that old Vanderbilt could not have imagined.

The day's big news, historically, is the expulsion of Jesuits from Spain, accompanied by confiscation of their property.

According to the Associated Press, the real estate of the Jesuits "is inconsiderable, amounting to only $20,000,000, churches, schools, and their contents included, although Sir Joseph Duveen or Herbert Samuel, given time, might get half a billion for them.

The larger part of the Jesuits' holdings, stocks and bonds, amounting to $70,000,000, according to the Associated Press, are probably beyond the reach of confiscation. Jesuits being highly intellectual, able to foresee events.

The Jesuits have been expelled from Spain, as they have often been from other European countries, once before, during the 400 years of work in Spain.

A most resourceful order, attracting the highest intelligence of the church, they will know how to adjust themselves to conditions that doubtless seem to them temporary.

The charge against them is "Placing allegiance to the Pope before allegiance to the Spanish Republic."

This action by Spain's government, following the recent burning of half a dozen more Catholic churches by Spanish Communists, shows intense anti-religious bitterness. But it is largely confined to the cities. The masses of peasants remain faithful to the church.

Mr. Chesmut, editor, of Pine Bluff, Ark., recently wrote asking, "Is Mr. Hoover one of the richest men in the world? Is it true that he has millions invested in foreign countries?"

Congressman Wood, of Indiana, answers one question, saying that President Hoover's fortune amounts to less than one million dollars. Not much, considering that in the early 30's Mr. Hoover, as engineer, earned $30,000 a year.

Forty thousand dollars a year, plus his salary as President, minus very substantial sums that he gives away, is the President's total income.

As for his "enormous investments in foreign countries," this writer is able to state that they amount to less than one dollar.

DRY REFERENDA VOTE IN SENATE

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The first chance at a prohibition vote this session came to the Senate today in the attempt of Senator Bingham (Rep.) of Connecticut to obtain action on a resolution proposing that governors ask for referenda in their states on repeal or modification.

The resolution was placed on the Senate calendar by Bingham yesterday, as supporting testimony was concluded in committee on his plan to legalize 4 per cent beer.

Meantime, Henry H. Curran, resident of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment addressed a letter to Congressmen, to Bishop Ernest G. Richardson of Philadelphia, new president of the Anti-Saloon League for "your plea for a referendum by states."

RAIL EARNINGS DOWN 33 P. C.

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP)—The railway presidents came forward today with the "important statistics" demanded by union labor in support of the plea for acceptance of a 10 per cent wage reduction.

The presidents asserted gross earnings of the railroads in 1931 were 33 per cent less than in 1929.

Their statement presented a mass of data on railway earnings and answered the labor proposals at the joint wage conference.

The brotherhood and union delegates Tuesday had made clear they would not accept the arguments of the carriers of the need for adequate investment return but they wanted a true picture of railway financial conditions and a statement of what was needed to meet fixed charges and maintain credit.

Harvard Dramatic Club Gets Quarters

The passing of the Cambridge School of Drama, an unofficial Harvar dorganization, has proved of material benefit to the Harvard Dramatic Club. It was learned today. Through aid of two benefactors, the dramatic club has taken over the Rogers building on Kirkland st., the octagonal structure which many years ago was the Harvard gymnasium, and all the equipment used by the school.

Lectures on the drama will be given at frequent intervals throughout the remainder of the year, some by producers and actors of international repute.

"DESERT TROUBADOUR" TO TAKE STAND AGAINST MRS. JUDD

STATE BUILDS SURPRISE MOVE ON HALLORAN

Trial of "Velvet Tigress" in Slaying of Friend Gets Under Way Today

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 21—The lottery of life and death in the Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd "trunk murder" case started today.

After two days of hard, persistent work, the state and defense attorneys finished selection of 29 prospective jurors and four alternates shortly before the close of the session yesterday.

When these men returned to court today both sides had selected the names they desired to strike from the list, and the 12 men and one alternate who must pass judgment on the daughter of a retired minister were sworn in.

HALLORAN SUMMONED

Before noon, County Atty. Lloyd J. Andrews will make his opening address, and testimony in what is expected to develop into a sensational trial will be under way.

Completion of the jury and the positive statement that J. J. "Happy Jack" Halloran, the "desert troubador" and for long a central figure in the background of the case, will play an important part in deciding Mrs. Judd's fate were the outstanding developments.

From questions asked yesterday by the defense attorney, Lewkowitz, there appears to be no doubt that Halloran's name and actions before the slaying of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson here last October will be woven into the very fabric of Mrs. Judd's defense. And because the state, also, has called Halloran as a witness an added element of surprise may be expected from the other side.

ACCOMPLICE HUNTED

It is going to be a typical Arizona jury. Sons of the soil—ranchers and dairymen—are certain to predominate regardless of what names are removed, for they outnumbered all others. Grim-faced, serious men, many of whom filed silently past Mrs. Judd without even giving her a glance as they left the courtroom yesterday.

A dramatic feature marked the court proceedings when the shadow of a possible mysterious accomplice fell across the scene. Suspicion that someone of sterner physique helped Mrs. Judd execute the gruesome murders of her two women friends and packed their bodies in two trunks and a valise and shipped them to Los Angeles grew as questions were put to prospective jurors.

Three Closeup Studies of Remorseful Attleboro Police Slayer and Two Victims of His Bullets

Head bowed in bitter grief, eyes dimmed with tears of remorse, Roland G. Bosquet of Norton today confessed to the murder of one policeman and the wounding of another after they had arrested him in Attleboro last night. Sobbing like a baby, Bosquet made a pathetic figure as he poured out his story under the grilling of Attleboro police.

Another view of the penitent slayer as he blubbered out the story of his crime with hands covering his tear-filled eyes. "I don't know why I did it," he whimpered, "except that one of the cops looked at me sort of hard. I figured they were going to let me have it. In fright, he said, he then drew his gun and fired.

Face drooping low in abject misery, young Bosquet told the last of his story in a choking, quavering voice. "I pulled the gun and shot the one who looked at me hard," he said. "He fell out of the car. Then I shot the other and drove away. I don't just remember where I went and I don't know why I did it." (Staff photos.)

ADMISSION TAX PROTESTED

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—The motion picture theater industry today vigorously protested against proposed restoration of the wartime admission taxes on exhibitors.

At hearings before the House ways and means committee, C. C. Pettijohn of New York, general counsel for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., opposed the tax in behalf of the motion picture industry.

Thirty other representatives of motion picture, amusement park, baseball, circus, actors, beaches and similar organizations joined in the protest.

The administration has proposed a 10 per cent tax on all admissions above 10 cents.

'Two-Gun' to Die Game, Not Tough, Says Lait

Jack Lait, author of "The Big House," "The Beast of the City" and other stories, is in Sing Sing prison to describe for International News Service the execution of "Two-Gun" Crowley. In the following story the well-known writer gives his first impressions of the convicted murderer as he awaits death.

By JACK LAIT

Sing Sing Prison, Jan. 21 (INS)—For some weird reason 300,000 citizens of New York State have bonded the Senators and Representatives and other politicians to get their admitted to see "Two-Gun" Crowley and "Cockeyed Benny" Gordon die in the "Hot Squat" tonight. Why, I do not know.

I have seen 19 men hanged and 11 men and one woman (Ruth Snyder) burned in the "hot squat"—and why anybody who doesn't have to should want to see such sights is past me.

But it is part of a reporter's job, and it has to be done.

I spent the day at Sing Sing, because this poor "punk" Crowley and this dizzy stickup chump Gordon must pay off with their lives for going after what was not theirs. But it is no pleasure.

GAME, BUT NOT TOUGH

Crowley will die game, but not tough.

I have seen many men die by civil law, and almost all of them died game, but only one died tough. That was Pete Niedermeyer of the car barn gang in Chicago long ago.

Crowley is not of that breed. He has accepted the comforts of the church and will go to his maker a good boy, after having been one of the few death house cons who was very naughty.

He ate quite heartily.

His foster mother, who was a very pathetic figure in the daily prints, but not so pathetic in the big house, where values are measured in deep shadows, spent most of the day with him. Even the hard-boiled guards were a bit impressed with the old, shabby figure. Crowley bade her a short farewell. She will spend today with him.

REFUSES TO SEE GIRL

And when she shuffled out, bent and broken by the drama which her wordid life has never intended to be here, the little killer wiped his nose (and then wiped his eyes), whistled to the guard and piped up:

"Come on, baby, let's put on the feed bag."

He did not see Helen Walsh, the little girl who was with him when it took 300 coppers to nail him.

She had asked the courts to fix it, because his mother had said he wanted to talk to her once more before the end.

Warden Lawes went to court to protest—not against Crowley, but for him. Lawes told me:

"Crowley said to me he didn't want to talk to the kid or see her—it was Helen who fixed the cop on him, and that was good night."

He had no appetite for this pretty child who also was with him when he shot the copper for whose life he must pay, and the sentimental mush on that subject was not originated in Crowley's death cell, but in spending Crowley's last day with him.

I will be with him to the finish. I will tell you about the "blow off." It is not a sweet assignment, but it's the job.

GRINNELL PACT IS REVEALED

By a surprise witness in Supreme Court today, it was testified that, in 1926, Miss Mary E. Grinnell, now an inmate at Concord Insane Hospital, had spoken of an agreement to take care of Mrs. Catherine Flood of Rand st., West Roxbury, for life.

In Superior Court the $3,000,000 "Cinderella" suit brought by Mrs. Flood against Miss Grinnell and her brother and guardian, Harold D. Grinnell of Pittsfield, is being heard on Mrs. Flood's claim that Miss Grinnell agreed to support her for life.

The surprise witness was Mrs. Susan Hern of George st., Newton, a saleswoman for children's books, and her appearance followed a conference at the judge's bench.

$50,000 KIDNAP CAR FOUND

Denver, Jan. 21 (AP)—Finding of the motor car used by kidnapers of Benjamin J. Bower, 62, held for $50,000 ransom, gave police their first good clue today as relatives of the bakery corporation manager expressed fear he had been slain.

His wife appealed through the press to the abductors not to kill her husband because police were ended in violation of instructions of the men who took him from their home Tuesday night.

Young Insull Given 'Go-Getter' Medal for Relief Work

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP)—Samuel Insull, Jr., was given a gold medal last night because he is a "go-getter."

The Chicago Junior Association of Commerce made the award, describing him as "the young man under 25 years of age who has performed the most meritorious civic service in Chicago during the year 1931."

Mr. Insull was chosen from among hundreds of candidates in recognition of his work as chairman of the joint emergency relief fund for Cook county.

This organization solicited, collected and disbursed $10,000,000 for relief of unemployed.

GUARD ON JOB AT BRADFORD

Bradford, Vt., Jan. 21—Police and heavily armed volunteer guards from the American Legion post maintained an all night vigil here to protect the buildings threatened with fire in two anonymous notes last week.

Postal authorities and the State Insurance Department have been investigating the letters since their receipt, but as yet have made no progress in a solution of the writer or his motive.

Townspeople, aroused to an almost hysterical pitch at first, are calming down, and many are now expressing the opinion the letters were the work of a practical joker. Others think the notes may have resulted from a grudge against some of the property owners.

PREBLE FIGHTS TO SAVE NAME

When the petition of George Prebyle, Everett iron moulder, to Anglicize his name to Preble is heard in Middlesex Probate Court, Dr. William E. Preble, of Beacon st., Back Bay, will appear in protest.

Prebyle filed a petition to abandon the collection of consonants and adopt the more readily pronounceable and euphonious appellation of Preble. The papers were filed by Atty. F. C. Kendall.

Dr. Preble notified the court he would be on hand to protest and later amplified his objections, saying he was opposed to having the noted name of Preble used at random by anyone who wished.

Smith, Jones and Brown, common names, are good enough for Mr. Prebyle, if he wishes to adopt a more Anglican name, in the opinion of Dr. Preble. As for the Preble name, that is uncommon, and one which has held a place of honor since early Colonial days in New England history.

Dr. Preble listed some of the Prebles who have gained prominence in New England since revolutionary days. The majority of the present day Prebles were in Maine, he said, although here there were Dr. Wallace Preble, Cambridge physician, and Professor Preble, of the Harvard biology department. Dr. Preble himself is an authority of the Boston Dispensary.

Reds Want $1 a Day, Free Ride, Riches

Windsor, Ont., Jan. 21 (AP)—The United Front Conference, an organization which developed after Communists were barred from Canada, announced today border cities would be asked to provide covered trucks in which the unemployed may travel to Toronto in February to present their demands to parliament.

Municipalities also are to be asked to allow $1 a day expenses for each marcher. A leader said they would demand "confiscation of wealth, free speech and unemployment insurance."

Coast Guards Save Marooned Families

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 21 (AP)—Swift coast guard boats traversed the Mississippi delta today, picking up marooned families, and sentinels in the homeless at refugee centers and distributing food to thousands made destitute by high waters.

The boats, heavily laden with food, took relief to the little town of Crowder, in Quitman County, to which more than 1000 homeless, hungry people flocked almost overnight from the flooded Quitman-Panola basin.

Editor of Gandhi's Newspaper Jailed

Bombay, Jan. 21 (AP)—S. Sadanand, editor of the Free Press, Mahatma Gandhi's organ, was arrested today under the new government ordinances intended to put down the Mahatma's civil disobedience campaign.

It was understood a warrant also was issued for the arrest of Devdas Gandhi, the Mahatma's eldest son.

Warden Refuses to Let Helen Walsh See Crowley

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 21 (INS)—Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison today refused to permit Miss Helen Walsh to see her former sweetheart, Francis ("Two-Gun") Crowley, who is in the death house awaiting electrocution.

Miss Walsh arrived at the prison shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, accompanied by a lawyer who had an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser of White Plains, directing the warden to permit her to see Crowley provided Lawes thought such a visit advisable.

Picture of Electric Chair on Wall of Crowley's Cell

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Francis Crowley, scrawny youth who lived all his 20 years in New York and can scarcely write his name, cut out the last of his paper toys today and stole glances at a picture of the electric chair pasted on his cell wall. He dies in the chair in Sing Sing tonight for murdering a policeman.

Guards outside his cell watched him so that escape or suicide should not thwart the process of justice. They remembered the desperation with which he fought 300 policemen armed with machine guns in a two-hour siege of his apartment house hideaway last May.

"I didn't want to forget it," said Crowley, explaining why he pasted up the picture of the chair when they put him in the death-house.

Experts tried to find in his past the reasons why the twisted youth in a brief career of crime earned the name of "Two-Gun."

POLICEMAN'S SON

He was the son, his attorney said, of Dora Dietz, a servant girl, and a private policeman, who never married her. Shortly after birth he was taken to the baby farm of Mrs. Anna Crowley, the lawyer said.

Growing into adolescence with a mind retarded, he turned from school to tawdry dance places and shady resorts.

Suddenly police, calling him a dangerous criminal, broadcast an alarm for him in the killing of Virginia Brannen dime-a-dance girl who was shot and tossed from an automobile into a Yonkers' hedge.

TWO-HOUR SIEGE

One night Patrolman Frederick Ulrich of Nassau County, thinking to stop a petting party, approached a parked automobile. Its occupants were Crowley and his sweetheart Helen Walsh. Crowley shot him dead and sped away.

A few days later detectives cornered him, the girl and Rudolph Duringer, fat fireman, in an apartment house on New York's upper West Side. Bullets and tear gas bombs crashed into the place for two hours before Crowley, wounded and his ammunition exhausted, let the police enter.

Duringer, whimpering, was executed for killing the dance hall hostess during an automobile ride on which Crowley accompanied him. Crowley, convicted of the policeman's murder, jostled Duringer as he went to the chair.

ESCAPE THWARTED

In his cell in the death house Crowley began building model bridges and apartment houses. Defense alienists said he was a "moral imbecile." The state said he was sane.

After plotting vainly to escape with the aid of a home-made bludgeon and knife fashioned from a spoon handle, Crowley turned to an attempt to win freedom for Patrick O'Brien, 19, serving 20 to 40 years for a holdup.

Crowley said it was one of his own holdups and that O'Brien was innocent. O'Brien won a new trial but was convicted.

MAN SUICIDE IN LOVE QUARREL

Kenneth E. Dayton, treasurer of the Stiblen Corp., and the Automatic Signal Corp., committed suicide in New Haven, Ct., because he failed to make happy the former Dorothy Otto of Brookline, an actress, whose previous marriage had been annulled.

Dayton, in a note found late yesterday explained that he had carefully dressed himself in his formal evening clothes in order to pretend that he was on the way to their wedding.

The woman in the case was declared to be Mrs. Dorothy Creegan, formerly Dorothy Otto, whose suit for divorce from James R. Creegan of Scranton, Pa., is scheduled for hearing in New Haven in two weeks. Creegan is a wealthy graduate of Pennsylvania State University and they were said to have married in Boston.

OLD UNCLE SAM LOST EUROPE'S LUNCH-ROGERS

London, Jan. 21 (INS)—"There ain't gonna be any Lausanne conference and it don't require high-powered diplomacy to figure that out.

"Didja ever see a picnic take place when the man with the luncheon basket didn't show up? Well, since Uncle Sam ain't shown up at Lausanne there ain't gonna be a picnic—he's lost Europe's lunch."

Thus did Will Rogers express to International News Service today his slant on the proposed meeting of the world's dignitaries to settle reparations. He was waiting to greet his wife, who is coming from New York.

"It's the wife's turn to direct the itinerary from now on," he said. "I've been gallivantin' in the Far East. I don't know what the World War was about, but the scrap in the Far East was the first war ever to be held over soya beans.

"There's no use worrying about the Japanese holding Manchuria. You know, I read history books about the Mongolians trying to conquer the Chinese. Well, Mongolia just ran out of Mongolians trying to conquer the Chinese. That's what would happen to the Japanese. What could they do with 30,000,000 men in Manchuria?

"The trouble with the Chinese is that they been listenin' to missionaries sent out by Bishop Cannon's and Dean Inge's gang and to diplomats. The missionaries said, 'Trust the Lord' and the diplomats said, 'Trust the League of Nations,' but it seems like they both failed the Chinese."

2 YOUTHS TAKEN AS FIREBUG SUSPECTS

Worcester, Jan. 21—Two suspects were arrested today in connection with the nine incendiary fires here in four days, one of which destroyed All Saints Episcopal Church yesterday.

The pair of youths were picked up after a bakehy wagon driver had told Police Chief Thomas F. Foley and Supt. William F. Finneran of the detective bureau that he talking with one of the youths the youth had declared he knew "plenty about the fires."

A man believed to be demented was also sought by police today in connection with the fires.

SEARCH FOR MANIAC.

Search for the supposed demented firebug began when police were informed by Miss Elizabeth O'Connor of Pleasant st. that the man had been ringing her bell at 1:30 a. m. yesterday, two hours after a back piazza fire was discovered at her home and half an hour before the church fire started.

The bell ringer fled when he saw her approaching the door. She described him as about 30 years old, five feet six inches tall, with a light complexion and wearing a dark overcoat with sheepskin collar and with a cap pulled low over his eyes.

THE VOICE OF BROADWAY

By LOUIS SOBOL

Is Broadway Dying?

We sat around in Dave's Blue Room, a midnight or two ago, discussing the forced exodus of the popular hotspots from the Broadway scene. "You can't get away from it," muttered one coffee sipper, dolorously, "the old Street's dead. Nobody's got any money to spend. The speaks are closing. Nobody's going to the night clubs. Nobody's going to the shows. You guys who write columns better begin looking around for another job." And more along those lines.

It didn't perturb me at that particular time, but you know how a little thought will take root somewhere back in your mind and then begin sprouting and sprouting until it crowds out everything else. I began wondering. Suppose every speak were closed up. Suppose every night club drooped. Would there be any Broadway left? You may think that's having a mighty dull of mental distress over nothing at all—in other words, what difference would it make whether Broadway dropped out of the picture or kept booming along? A lot of difference to a few of us—we make a living chronicling the events of the Street. I, personally, would hate to go back to work.

So I took a survey of the situation—taking it for granted that all the favorite night rendezvous had been eliminated. What was left of Broadway? Plenty—take it from me.

Broadway will always be Broadway as long as there's a chorus girl left. The Blanche Satchels, the Vilis Millis, the Doris Andrews, the Mary Alice Rices, the Norma Taylors, the Agnes Franeys, the Marion Martins, the Virginia Biddles, the Louise Allens, the Eileen Wennels, the Betty Reals—the Carroll dolls the White dolls, the Ziegfeld dolls the Minsky dolls, the Shubert dolls —hundreds of them—they're Broadway. Their little romances, their heartbreaks, their thrills, their tragedies—there'll always be a Broadway to write about as long as we have chorus girls. Beside: Hazel Forbes, a Ziegfeld girl, after one marriage and numerous romances, meets Paul O. Richmond, a millionaire manufacturer, falls deeply in love with him, has everything her heart desires and is genuinely happy. Paul O. Richmond died Sunday. That's a Broadway tragedy.

Another sample: Norma Taylor, an ex-Gulman girl, is in love with Tommy Guinan for years. They have a quarrel. In a moment of pique she elopes with William Duryea—and leaves him the following day. The marriage is annulled. In the meantime Tommy's name becomes linked with that of the red-headed Iris Adrian, Hollywood and Ziegfeld girl. Tommy Manville, Jr., millionaire asbestos heir, falls in love with Norma. He showers her with gifts. Fur coats, jewels, a $5000 check for Christmas. What a match for a little chorus girl! There's talk of a marriage in May. Last week Norma calls Manville on the phone and tells him point blank that everything is over between them. In the meantime Tommy Guinan and Iris Adrian drift apart. Norma insists that she and Tommy are merely good friends now, nothing more. But Broadway, which has watched the hectic romance between the two, is certain that they'll get together again. Whether they do or not, at least you get the point. It's a Broadway affair.

Broadway will always be Broadway as long as there is a Peggy Hopkins Joyce, a Texas Guinan, a Harry Richman, a Flo Ziegfeld, an Earl Carroll, a Helen Morgan, a Rudy Vallee, a George M. Cohan, a Jed Harris, Peggy Joyce and her loves and her jewels. The newspapers and the columnists hint at a fifth marriage. European friend of mine insists there's an ..merican lad in Paris whom Peggy really loves. A fellow without a nickel to his name—and who, strangely enough, refuses to marry Peggy because he has Peggy's Texas Guinan in to love with a Chicago lad, but is thrilled because the Federal man, Ameen, who led the raiders on her Chicago night club and who looks like Clark Gable, has been paying her marked attention. She takes off 31 pounds and begins reading silly love novels. Harry Richman and his affair with the dark-eyed Virginia Biddle. Harry Richman and his brief, mad affair with Clara Bow. Harry Richman and his numerous short-lived romances with this little gal and that. Ted Harris, who swelled a slim bankroll into more than a million by a succession of threat'ul hits—and then lost every cent of it. Rudy Vallee and the girl who snubbed him once because she didn't think tooting a saxophone was much of a career; Rudy Vallee and the girl he married, Fay Webb. Rudy Vallee and his secret ambition to enter politics when he's 40. Helen Morgan and Arthur Loew. Hints that they had married secretly. Denials. Helen and her ambitions to be a writer. Romances, tragedies, comedies—all part of Broadway.

How about the section itself—what we call Broadway? From 34th Street up to 50th—and even beyond. And the side streets that jut east and west. Every theatre has its quota of stories. What goes on backstage? The quarrels, the petty jealousies, the sacrifices—and again, the romances? Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, man and wife, lovers on the stage. Do they keep it up at home? Mary Ellis and Basil Sidney. Man and wife at home—lovers on the stage. Lenore Ulric and Sidney Blackmer, ditto. What about the little obscure chorus girl madly in love with the male principal, crying her eyes out as she watches him engage in one affair after another—but never with her? The producers and their eager quest for angel money. The rivalry between Carroll, Ziegfeld and White with Mae Gordon looking on from the sidelines, acting as he recalls his three successive successes—"Three's a Crowd," "Hand Wagon" and "The Cat and the Fiddle."

Little Thelma White, the blonde dancer and singer, married to Stroud, the vaudevillian at 16. An unhappy marriage. She meets Max Hoffman, Jr., the juvenile and son of Gertrude Hoffman, the famous dancer. They fall desperately in love with each other. She's happy, she confesses to no one night, for the first time in her life. He is, too. A few weeks ago, they drift apart. He's eating his heart out for her. She cries when you mention his name. But she insists it's all over. Friends don't believe it. What do you mean there's no Broadway?

The Phil Plants, the Billy Loedens, the Sailing Baruchs—lads of wealth, but lads of Broadway. Phil Plant and his mad romance with Constance Bennett and subsequent marriage—and subsequent divorce. Billy Leeds and Raquel Torres—a hopeless quest for happiness because of a lad named Charlie Feldman on the Coast. Harold Stern, the orchestra leader, loses his wife because he spends too much time away from her and with his business. He pretends indifference, but at the end of a month, he's desperate. He woos her all over again and they're reconciled. The divorce proceedings are squashed.

That elderly millionaire widow—at one time a sedate matron, wife of a conservative industrial giant. Her husband dies, leaving her countless millions, and she breaks through the traces. She goes Broadway, carrying always in tow her tall, slim, good-looking gigolo. They drink heavily. They quarrel, constantly.

Okay. Let them kill off the speaks. Let them shut up the night clubs. But they can't kill off Broadway. Not even if they picked the street up bodily and moved it to Tallahassee.

WOMAN OBEYS ORDER TO KILL EMPLOYED

Piqua, O., Jan. 21 (AP)—Richard Sheppard, 63, well known to followers of light harness racing, was found shot to death in his home here early today.

His housekeeper, Mrs. Lydia Swailes, 74, who was found unconscious with a tube leading from an open gas jet in her hand, was held for questioning. A note in her handwriting, police said, stated Sheppard told her to shoot him because he had spent all her money in operating a pool room. Police quoted her as saying the shotgun discharged accidentally.

Sheppard, until six years ago was known at all the country's harness race tracks as a manager and trainer. He handled Grace Hussey, famous trotter, for the Bland & Smith Co. of Sidney.

GIBBONS RADIO TALK ON WAR IS EPOCHAL

New York, Jan. 21 (INS)—Hailed by radio experts, editors and publishers as the outstanding achievement of radio-news co-operation, the first broadcast from the Sino-Japanese battle front was acclaimed today as epoch-making.

The joint talk made by Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander of the Japanese troops in Manchuria, and Floyd Gibbons, unrivalled head-line hunter assigned to cover the war in the Far East by International News Service, was heard around the world.

For the first radio broadcast ever made from the headquarters of an army in the field was relayed from Mukden to Tokio whence it was sent speeding across the Pacific for transmission in the United States.

From Pittsburgh and Oakland, Cal., the speeches were rebroadcast to Europe, South America and Australia.

Both Gen. Honjo and Gibbons were heard here and throughout the nation with exceeding clarity, though their voices came from a distance of 13,000 miles to this city, according to an estimate by Hearst Radio and the National Broadcasting Co., through whose network the talks were made.

Gen. Honjo and I. N. S. Praised for Broadcast

Mukden, Jan. 21 (INS)—A flood of messages from Japan and many congratulatory cables from America were received today at the headquarters of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commandant of the imperial Japanese army in Manchuria, commending him and International News Service for broadcasting to the world the latest events on the Sino-Japanese front.

The broadcast is viewed in official circles here as being the most effective step taken to cement the bonds of amity and cordial relations between the United States and Japan.

In Japan, through the network of 15 broadcasting stations, 900,000 radio sets tuned in on the rebroadcast of Gen. Honjo and Floyd Gibbons. International News Service correspondent in the thick of the fray in Manchuria.

Thousands of radio fans in China listened-in avidly to the speeches of the Japanese commander and the American war correspondent. Many excerpts from the talks were printed in the Chinese newspapers today.

AUTO CRASHES TAKING A GIRL TO HOSPITAL

In a race to Carney Hospital with a patrolman on his running board and carrying a girl whom he had just knocked down, Chester Fischer, 20, of Whittredge st., Dorchester, was in a second accident when his auto was in collision late yesterday with another at West Sixth an F sts., South Boston. The occupant of the second car was not seriously hurt. The injured girl was transferred to a third car and the dash to the hospital continued.

Fischer was driving along D st., near Bowen, when, he told police, Margaret Melody, 13, of Bell ct., South Boston, darted into the street and was struck by his car.

Patrolman Francis X. Delaney of Athens st. station assisted Fischer to place the child in his car and stepped on the running board to direct the way to the hospital.

Two blocks from the scene of the accident, Fischer's car was in collision with that operated by Edward C. Canning of O'Connell rd., East Milton, throwing Delaney off the running board. Although slightly injured, the patrolman continued on duty.

20 FACE GRILL IN SLAYING AT DRACUT MILL

Dracut, Jan. 21—Robbers today were believed responsible for the death of William Abbott, 72, watchman, found bound, gagged and strangled in the American Woolen Co. mill basement late last night.

The force worked until 5:30, a time set at two hours before Abbott was found dead.

Abbott's body was discovered by William Fennell of Chelmsford st., Lowell, watchman, who came to relieve him. The dead man was absent from his post and Fennell became alarmed and searched the building discovering the body in the finishing room in the basement.

Police Chief John T. Carville asked the aid of District Attorney Warren L. Bishop of Middlesex County today.

He said he believed the murder an inside job by one who knew Abbott carried large sums, or the act of clothing robbers who fled when they realized the watchman had been killed.

Abbott had $2080 on him, but it was found sewed into his vest in such a way that a robber would overlook it.

A black hood, with holes cut out for eyes, was found near the body.

Adhesive tape had been used to bind his legs and arms. A woolen cloth was placed in his mouth and held in place with adhesive tape.

1 Dead, 2 Ill of Mystery Ailment

A mysterious ailment that seized them after they attempted to repair a leaking gasoline tank in Winchendon has resulted in death of one man and serious illness to two others.

Alexander Buchanan, 40, of Harvard st., Cambridge, died suddenly Monday night, at his home, after being ill less than 24 hours, and at the same time a fellow workman, David Maloney of Dudley st., Roxbury, and another man, were stricken with the same symptoms.

An investigation is being carried on by the State Department of Labor and Industries.

Buchanan's body was shipped to New Brunswick, last night, for burial after Dr. Leary conducted an autopsy. Maloney and the other victim were reported to be dying of a disease that resembles acute nephritis or Bright's disease.

MYSTERY SHOT KILLS WOMAN

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—A shot from the dark took the life of Mrs. Tatanio Koutsyanroes, born an aristocrat of Imperial Russia, just as she was tidying her apartment home last night in preparation for a party.

Mrs. Koutsyanroes, a teacher of language, ran into the kitchen, blood streaming from the wound in her neck, and died in her husband's arms.

A living room window was open from the top, leading to the belief the shot was fired from outside. The angle at which the bullet entered her neck indicated the shot may have been fired from the roof of a nearby building.

Mrs. Koutsyanroes was 32. With her husband she came here 18 months ago from Constantinople, where her father was the Czar's consul-general to Turkey.

The officers are Henry Foster, driver; Frank Carrie and Robert Mahar.

Machines to Bring 2-Hour Working Day and End Drudgery

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 21 (INS)—An America of the future in which machines, undeveloped to their full possibilities today, will perform the bulk of the nation's work, requiring the average man to toil only two or three hours a day, was pictured by Prof. Clifford C. Furnes of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University.

A much higher standard of living will be provided in that era for the worker through steady employment and good pay, Prof. Furnas declared.

Drudgery will virtually disappear.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21 (UP)—Rock-ribbed Republican Pennsylvania may join the Democratic column in 1932, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, declared last night at the "victory dinner" in the drive for a $1,500,000 campaign fund.

ASSAILANT OF GIRL HUNTED

Haverhill, Jan. 21—Police searched today for a youth who followed Miss Celia Sullivan, 23, of 82 Leonard ave., half a mile on Salem st., Bradford, last night, and hit her on the head with a piece of lead pipe.

His object evidently was robbery, but his blow failed to knock the girl down and she ran screaming to the nearest house, while he fled in another direction.

Miss Sullivan rang the doorbell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harris White, 22 Leonard ave. Her scalp was bleeding profusely but she was still clinging tightly to her handbag, which contained a few dollars. Dr. Paul Nottle was called and police notified.

Miss Sullivan described the youth as about 25, of dark complexion, slim and wearing a dark overcoat and light soft hat.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment, and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

SOCIETY DOESN'T HAVE A CHANCE TO SEE AND hear Cornelia Otis Skinner every day, so they are making the most of her visit to Boston and packing the Wilbur theater to capacity. Her real act this season is the Wives of Henry the Eighth, Good King Hal, but she puts on a half a dozen mimicries before the Queen's number, which brings down the house.

MISS JULIA C. PRENDERGAST

• • •

Her monologue of the young American who is packing up in preparation to leave Paris is screamingly funny and Boston's BEST certainly appreciated her awkward French and vain chatter. Incidentally, she is lovely to look at and in a supple cloth of silver evening gown which made the basis of her rapid transformation, she was indeed the wealthy and beautiful American who had bought more vanities than she could pack into twenty trucks. Over the silver gown she threw a peche velvet negligee, girdled with old blue ribbon, very lovely and immensely becoming.

• • •

Quite a shock was felt when in her next number she slipped into a worn black coat and aviation type turban to drive with her family into the country for a day. Chewing gum, quieting her fretful children, wistfully tired, she made your heart strings ache a little.

• • •

An Amusing Characterization

HER NEXT CHARACTERIZATION WAS AN ENGLISH lady lecturer in this country telling her experiences in Begundia. It was very amusing, even to the many necklaces of heavy African beads and the chiffon coatee trimmed with beads.

• • •

Monte Carlo

IF YOU HAVE NEVER BEEN to Monte Carlo you will imagine you have when you see Miss Skinner's imitation of an old Grande Dame, in faded finery, still working out her system after 30 years. It was a most admirable and excellent performance, and how she ever trembled so long without losing her teeth is a miracle. There was something gallant about the old character, as well as pitiable.

• • •

Auto Episodes

EVIDENTLY MANY IN THE audience were among those who drove in the first automobiles, benzine buggies, was the name Miss Skinner used, and long and hearty were the laughs as she appeared in the costume of the 90's, even to the long hatpin. In her imaginary Pope-Toledo she was a scream as she bumped over the roads, her exclamation of annoyance, "Oh, Fudd!" bringing down the house. Once again we would like to ask why do not more playwrights turn their talents to the funnyisms of this day and age, that we may have them to look back upon 30 years hence. The characterization of the Queens of England was a notable contribution to the stage and Miss Skinner's short sketches told volumes in a few words.

• • •

Misses King Attend

SNOW-WHITE BOSTON filled the stalls and boxes, a tribute to this delightful daughter of Otis Skinner we will loved in Boston. Prominent among them was Miss Julia C. Prendergast of Bay State rd., a portrait of a lady in a chinchilla wrap; the Misses Caroline and Anne King of Beacon Hill, generous and interested patrons of the Copley Players; Mrs. John Amos of Commonwealth ave, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill Thorndike with daughter, Miss Winifred.

In Pickman Party

SEATED IN A BOX WERE Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Pickman, Jr., Mrs. Pickman looking like a little princess in black velvet gown with huge full sleeves and square neckline, which fell in soft long folds onto the floor. Her hair is very blonde which she wears parted in the middle and coiled in soft curls over her ears. It is extremely effective but, of course, only a very pretty woman could wear it that way. In the Pickman box was Mr. and Mrs. William C. Codman and Mr. and Mrs. Rankin.

• • •

In Black Velvet

MISS BARBARA HOLDSWORTH, very attractive in a black velvet off the shoulder model gown, trimmed with ermine, was with a tall, dark escort. Miss Holdsworth is a very natural girl with lovely manners. Gretchen Bremer arrived with her mother, and Lydia Evans, in a soft orange chiffon, was with her mother. Mrs. Arthur T. Fuller attended with Mr. Fuller, and the Paul Cabots were present enjoying the show to the utmost. It was a very snoozy audience, as the debs say it, and we have heard of several theater parties which are being held there this evening.

Paderewski Plays

IGNACE PADEREWSKI, THE Polish lion, charmed his Boston morning musicale audience yesterday morning at the Hotel Statler. After the performance he held a small reception and the consensus of opinion among the ladies was that he is sweet, darling, god-like, fascinating and charming. He is the aristocrat of the music world and the audience stood when he entered and rose when he left. Tell you more tomorrow.

LEADERS AID PLAY FOR YOUNG

Benefit Will Be Held Saturday at Majestic

Miss Rebekah Hobbs of the Professional Players has announced that the usual Saturday morning performance for young people, produced by the National Junior Theater will take place this week at the Majestic Theater, instead of the Plymouth, as in the past. The tickets which subscribers already have may be used just the same, the seating having been found to compare relatively well with that of the Plymouth.

Mrs. George Von L. Meyer and Miss Anne Clifford, in charge of the block of tickets being sold for the benefit of the Boston Lying-In Hospital, as is always done at the second performance of the Professional Players' productions, are still endeavoring to sell a good many of them for Saturday's play, which, just by the way, is Mark Twain's "Prince and Pauper," a most charming and popular story, appealing to both old and young. The practice of serving milk and crackers between the acts, used by the Junior League during "Pinocchio" is another of these Saturday morning features, about which everything seems to be thoroughly enjoyed by the youngsters.

The next play to be brought here by the National Junior Theater for this series will be "The Three Musketeers," by Dumas, and is one that should thrill the parents as well as their children. The play will go on as before at the Plymouth Theater under, as is the whole production, the auspices of the Professional Players.

Assisting the Junior League's charming president, Miss Dorothy Lawrence, as ushers for the annual dinner to be given this evening by the Council of Social Agencies at the Chamber of Commerce, will be Miss Anna Clifford, Miss Rebecca Hallowell, Miss Anne Houghton, Miss Mary Loring, Miss Anne Peabody and Miss Harriet White. Miss Lawrence will direct this group in seating the guests.

Elaborate plans have been made for the annual dinner dance of the Jewish Anti-Tuberculosis Association, scheduled for the evening of Wednesday, February 3, in the Egyptian room of the Hotel Brunswick.

Mrs. J. R. Klein, with Mrs. Joseph Daniels, heads the committee in charge, and entertainment arrangements have been made to present Leo Reisman in person, conducing his orchestra.

Reservations thus far indicate a record number of guests at this year's dinner, Mrs. J. R. Klein of 323 Clark rd., Brookline, is in charge of reservations.

B. C. Night to Open Series

"Boston College Night" will be observed by the College Club of Greater Boston at the inauguration of a series of dances to be tendered students of the colleges in Greater Boston Saturday nights, at Repertory Hall.

State Employes of Maine Face Pay Cut

Augusta, Me., Jan. 21 (AP)—State employes today viewed with apprehension a move to cut their salaries and wages as part of the state's economy scheme to overcome an estimated $500,000 loss of revenue this fiscal year.

Skirts Shorter for Spring

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—Shorter skirts for street wear were featured by a prominent designer today in the opening showing of his 1932 Spring styles.

Suit skirts were one or two inches shorter than last year and straight, the only fullness being one left side pleat at the knee-line.

Hip-length, pinchback jackets were a rule. They were decidedly pinched at the waist by complicated tucks and seamings. Sleeves were straight, with broad shoulderline slightly exaggerated.

Taillieur fabrics were universally hard-surfaced, such as twills and tweeds, in black, white and brick, blue and white, or beige and brown combinations.

Ely to Address Labor Group

Books—And a Number of Things

By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

WEEKLY GAZETTE

Monday, January 11th: I wondered, not long ago in my Gazette, who it was that named the Pullman coaches: and today I received a telegram from Marie Dressler, beloved on the screen, telling me that it was Mrs. Pullman; and that she is said to receive a decent little salary for this service. I suppose we all think we could do better if we were given this job; but when I tried to set down some names, they seemed as inane as those already used, so I gave up in despair. All I could think of was "Hiawatha," and, for a sleeper, "Rip Van Winkle," which seemed rather good; but I take it that it must have been used.

To a meeting of the Board of Directors of our co-operative apartment house, and we considered ways and means of reducing upkeep charges, because of the depression, always a business that bores me; and I was obliged to leave before any plan had been arrived at, since I was dining early and going to the Opera with Mrs. Henry Hoyt. This turned out to be "Donna Juanita," by Von Suppe, with Jeritza in the cast; and though the program stated that it would be sung in German, many of the scenes were given in English—and such broken English that one had difficulty in understanding what it was all about.

• • •

Tuesday, January 12th: A dreary day, and to Woodlawn Cemetery to the sad funeral of a friend; then back to the thundering city to lunch with Gene Tunney. In the late afternoon to an exhibition of paintings by Thelma Grosvenor, most of which were exceedingly fine.

In the evening to dine with E. D. Coblents, finding Arthur and Vivian Samuels there.

• • •

Wednesday, January 13th: The books for the new year are beginning to pour from the publishers' presses, so exceedingly busy digging into them. Then to luncheon with Irene Franklin, the singer, at her apartment overlooking Central Park, and for the first ten minutes I could do nothing but gaze from her high windows, watching the motors whirl, like little toys, on the roadways beneath us; and it was so warm that all the windows were open, as if it were Spring; and I began to feel an urge to go to the country.

• • •

In the evening to Gene and Polly Tunney's, and found Norman Hapgood there, who talked of politics, most interestingly; as we heard some fine music, both vocal and instrumental. Downtown with Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore, who dropped me at my door, and I soon fell into a happy sleep because of the melodies I had heard.

• • •

Thursday, January 14th: After my morning's work, for a long walk through the park, to lunch with Bruno Lessing on the West Side, and he told me of his long stay abroad, and of his famous collection of walking-sticks.

In the evening to a play, dinner at Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's and talked with Cordelia Robertson most of the time, which pleased her play backgammon so rapidly and so skillfully that I was amazed that anyone could count so surely; and Ethel Harriman Russell told me, with much laughter, how, because I had gone on the stage for a little while, her name had been removed from the Social Register; and we thought this a foolish procedure.

• • •

Friday, Jan. 15: So warm that it was unnecessary to wear an overcoat, and, having accomplished my work, I walked to Molly Potter's for lunch, where I found Harriette Wilson, whom I had not seen since her return from abroad.

In the evening to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bingham's to dine, and to hear my cousin, Martha Millinowski, play Brahms, which she did with such beauty of tone that I was amazed; and I do not wonder that she is so successful at Vassar, where she teaches. I came away very proud of her accomplishment.

• • •

Saturday, January 16th: To lunch with James Forbes, the playwright, and he walked home with me. In the evening Julian and Margot Street and J. Denison came in to dine and play contract, and I had great luck.

• • •

Sunday, January 17th: At work all day, and never left the house until four in the afternoon, when I went for a much needed walk, meeting Geoffrey Kerr, the actor.

In the evening to the Donald Macdonalds' for buffet supper, and found Allison Smith, Russell Crouse, Dorothy Stickney and Romney Brent there; and we played a game of limericks, most amusing, each player supplying a line, blindly, which made comical reading later.

~NEW LINENS—SO SOON! WHY YOU'RE ONLY MARRIED A YEAR
~I KNOW, BUT SCRUBBING WEARS THINGS THREADBARE
~WHY, JANE—OF COURSE SCRUBBING RUINS CLOTHES! BUT NOBODY SCRUBS ANY MORE—GET YOURSELF SOME RINSO. IT SOAKS CLOTHES WHITE AS SNOW
I'VE HEARD A LOT ABOUT THAT SOAP. I MUST TRY IT NEXT WASHDAY
NEXT WASHDAY
I SEE YOU TOOK MY ADVICE. THAT'S A RINSO WASH. I CAN TELL BY THE WHITENESS
YOU'RE RIGHT! AND IT'S WONDERFUL FOR COLORED THINGS, TOO
THANKS TO RINSO, THIS IS THE FIRST MONDAY I'VE HAD FREE IN A LONG TIME

Try this safe, scrubless way for whiter washes—brighter colors

JUST imagine clothes getting white and clean without scrubbing them threadbare on a washboard. Imagine washable colored things soaking bright and fresh without danger of the colors running.

No wonder millions of women have given up old-fashioned washday methods. No wonder new thousands are turning every week to the modern "no-work" soap—Rinso.

Clothes soak so clean in Rinso, scrubbing is unnecessary. It's the suds that do it—thick, creamy, lasting. Twice as much suds, cup for cup, as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. The makers of 40 famous washers recommend Rinso. Great for dishwashing, too. Grease goes—dishes shine. Get the BIG package.

CHELSEA BLAZE DESTROYS BARN

Fanned by a high wind, fire of undetermined origin, destroyed the large two-story wooden stable at 2628 Woodlawn ave., Chelsea, last night, despite the efforts of firemen from Chelsea, Revere and Everett, who responded to a general alarm. The loss was estimated at above $10,000.

Chief David Hudson of Chelsea, ordered the general alarm sounded when he realized that nearby wooden structures, some as close as 40 or 50 feet, were jeopardized by flying sparks and embers.

The stable, which was unoccupied, is owned by H. P. Hood & Sons, Inc., Boston milk dealers.

Girl About Town

—By ALYCE SIEMENS—

Night Club

Once more the orchestra begins to play;
Cascades of light drip downwards to the floor;
At every table couples getting gay;
The singer bows, and adds routine encore.

The spotlight pencils out its thin white light;
A scare-clad body swiftly pirouettes;
The big blonde's glad to feel she's getting tight;
The girl in shorts calls out her cigarettes.

A big shot sits with back against the wall;
A fair, but dizzy, debbie starts to doze;
The hostess turns at every beck and call.

While waiters move with soft and catlike tread,
A young man drunk wishes that he were dead!

—Big Boy Blue.

Standards

One Watertown miss has a very nice boy friend—a college undergraduate . . . But she's having more trouble, nevertheless! . . . Because she simply can't persuade her mother a lady who is a bit old-fashioned in her views that the young chap IS nice . . . There's one habit he has which convinces the mother that there's something very, very wrong about her daughter's boy friend, regardless of his gentle manners and proper behavior . . . Here's the way she expresses her deep-rooted conviction: "No fellow that's decent rides in taxis!"

Telling About Them

It's a safe bet that Mrs. Frank Morgan, while in town with her actor-hubby, will look up a pianist to play for her amusement after theater-hours . . . At parties Mrs. Morgan asks only to have someone playing piano constantly . . . He can play classics, jazz, or anything . . . But she wants him to play and play . . . And no matter how noisy the party is, she just leans on the piano and listens for hours to piano playing . . . Why doesn't that pretty Bostonian, "Connie," master that impulse to throw glassware from night club balconies onto other customers' astonished heads? . . . She's a great kid, aside from that . . . But that's enough to get her shown the door any time . . . Kiki Roberts will probably surprise you when you see her at the Scollay until you know already that her ballet and toe work are of remarkable brilliancy . . . By the bye, when male friends of Kiki's called at the stage-door in N. Y. to see her last week, she wouldn't be seen' . . .

Telling Some More

Miriam Marcia Kurland, a regal-looking miss of the decided blonde type, whom you often see charmingly gowned at the Mayfair ringside, is not, as you might guess, a do-nothing deb, but the mathematically gifted lady who daytimes keeps the Mayfair books in order . . . Arthur Levasseur, now at the Villa Bouche at Miami Beach, is a Boston boy and a protege of Louis Walters . . . Carroll McCullough came all the way in from Weymouth Tuesday evening just to demonstrate to the members of the Geneva Association, in banquet assembled, how well ginger ale mixes with ice . . . Newton's Murray Wilshire has returned to his home after two months in hospital as a result of one of the most dreary of-all-possible accidents . . . Murray was just entering the Harvard Stadium to witness the Harvard-Yale game when an exuberant person decided to pretend Murray was a ball-carrier and himself a defensive halfback and tackled Murray for three leg fractures . . .

Boston Babies

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the former Rose Fitzgerald of Boston, is the happy mother of eight youngsters, and expects another social call from the baby-bringing bird sometime next month . . . So you'll probably find Mrs. Kennedy in Boston soon if she has not already arrived when you read this . . . And here's the reason . . . All of the Kennedy's existant children were born in this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy want the next one to be able to brag about being born in the very nucleus of all earthly culture also.

Cordial Lady

Vera Lenox, the English actress, has extra-special reasons for being fond of Boston, which she's visiting for the first time now. The day after Vera arrived here she was sitting on the Charles river esplanade, reading, when a distinguished-looking lady passed . . . A moment later the lady passed again . . . She passed a third time . . . Finally she approached Vera and asked, "I hope you'll pardon me, but are you the young lady who plays 'Susie' Dean in 'The Good Companions'?" Vera said she was . . . The lady went on, "I've never done anything like this before—going up to a stranger and all . . . But I wonder if you'd like to visit my home" . . . She seemed such a nice lady that Vera accepted . . . It turned out she WAS a nice lady . . . She's one of Boston's bluebloods, and has been entertaining Vera at her home, taking her to odd Beacon Hill tea-rooms, and showing her through some of the old Hill houses where her friends reside . . . Vera is glad the lady decided to be unconventional for once.

GALA REPERTOIRE FOR OPERA SEASON

New Stars Will Sing Here

By HARRIS MORGAN

The two-week season of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, which opens at the Opera House, February 1, shows every indication that it will surpass in attendance and splendor any fortnight of opera presented in Boston by this organization. This may be due to the unusual repertory and casts. Many artists new to Boston will be heard during the two weeks.

* * *

On the opening night, Puccini's "Tosca" will be given, in which Claudia Muzio will be heard as "Tosca," and Boston will have an opportunity to hear again Vanni-Marcoux in his famous interpretation of "Scarpia." On Tuesday evening, Boston will hear for the first time, Conchita Supervia, who will appear in "Carmen," an opera in which she has achieved fame in Italy and France.

Rosetta Pampanini, internationally known prima donna, will be heard in "La Boheme," on Thursday matinee, Feb. 11, and "Butterfly" on Wednesday, Feb. 3. In Chicago this season Madame Pampanini has been heralded as the most original interpreter of Puccini music heard in years.

Mozart's "The Magic Flute," given this year for the first time in Chicago, and Thomas' "Mignon," which was added to the Chicago Opera repertory last season, will be presented in Boston for the first time by the Chicago Civic Opera.

Boston will have an opportunity to hear the famous Lotti Lehmann of the Vienna State Opera Company. She will sing Elsa in "Lohengrin." Wednesday matinee, Feb. 3, and Eva in "Die Meistersinger," Friday, Feb. 5.

"Faustfil" will be presented on Wednesday evening, Feb.

"Samson et Delila," Saturday matinee, Feb. 6, with Cyrena Van Gordon and Charles Marshall in the title roles, will be another of the outstanding performances of the fortnight.

NEW FILMS BRING FAVORITES BACK TO BOSTON SCREENS

Pola Negri's latest film, "A Woman Commands," will have its Boston premiere at RKO Keith's tomorrow. Hundreds of Negri's fans will be there.

Another Gala Show at Met

Another unusual bill of screen and stage features is to be presented at the Metropolitan tomorrow. On the screen will be William Powell in "High Pressure," a comedy drama of "big business."

On the stage will be Vincent Lopez and his orchestra. Also as guest conductor of the Metropolitan orchestra bill appears Ranny Weeks. On stage also will be a stage revue, "Black and White," featuring George Dewey Washington.

"Dance Team" on Two Bills

Four of the five persons credited with the success of "Bad Girl" were reunited in making "Dance Team" the feature attraction at the Washington St. Olympia and the Uptown starting tomorrow.

James Dunn and Sally Eilers, the two youngsters who scored in the leading "Bad Girl" roles, Minna Gombell, who played the chief supporting role, and Edwin Burke, who wrote the screen play and dialog from Vina Delmar's book, all performed similar parts in the new offering.

Helen Kane Is Headliner

It is a fact that few of the precocious youngsters who are picked as "child star" possibilities ever materialize into real stage celebrities. But petite, Helen Kane, who will appear in person at the RKO Keith-Boston beginning Saturday, is an exception. Just a few years ago she was a member of a feature vaudeville act titled "Stars of the Future," comprised of youngsters of talent and ability, who had been discovered in minor roles in various shows. Helen Kane was known then as Helen Schroeder.

Of the sextet who appeared in the vaudeville production, Helen Kane emerged a winner. It is said that she was "discovered" in a "Follies" road show singing "How Would You Like to Be a Kid Again?" Certainly it was fate that little Helen Schroeder was to become Helen Kane, a star of the future.

Film Who's Who

Melvyn Douglas, who appears opposite Gloria Swanson in "Tonight or Never," at Loew's Orpheum tomorrow, makes his debut on the screen in that vehicle after a very successful stage career. Douglas was born at Macon, Ga., and for a while attended the University of Nebraska. College did not appeal to him as much as the stage, however. He made his first appearance in Shakespearean repertory. Following engagements with the Jesse Bonstelle Stock Company in Detroit and other stock companies throughtout the country, he appeared on Broadway in "The Silver Cord," "The Command to Love" and "Jealousy."

Melvyn Douglas

Shepperd Strudwick to Star in Copley Play

So enthusiastic is Manager E. E. Underhill of the Copley Theater about the forthcoming production of "A Murder Has Been Arranged," scheduled for Monday evening, that he has engaged the services of the noted actor, Shepperd Strudwick, for one of the leading roles.

Exeter Theater

John Barrymore in "The Mad Genius" and Linda Watkins and John Boles in "Good Sport" are the attractions for the remainder of the week at the Exeter.

Famous European Star to Play Leading Role in Universal's Feature

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Jan. 21—An American-made film with scenes actually filmed in Germany is a part of the intriguing plan for a coming Universal special. Carl Laemmle, Sr., bought the film called "Mountains In Flame" when he was in Germany. Carl, Jr., will now cut out the best scenes in the German film, taken in the Tyrol mountains, and incorporate them in a picture to be made at Universal City.

Louella O. Parsons

Louis Trenker, famous in Europe as an actor and a mountain climber, arrives here tomorrow to play his original part in the English version. Victor Varconi, another excellent actor, plays an important role and in all probability, Universal's pet foreign actress, Tala Birrel, will play the feminine lead.

Paul Peres has the job of Americanizing the German story and Cyril Gardner of competing in America with the German director who did, we are told, a very good job.

If you catch Ramon Novarro in an off moment, get him to tell you the story of the asters and violets Greta Garbo sent him in New York. She signed her card "M. H." meaning Mata Hari, and what a time Ramon had returning those floral tokens. He finally sent yellow roses and signed "Lieut., Alexis Rosanoff" (the hero of "Mata Hari.") Is there anything significant in the color yellow? Now, if Ramon had sent red roses—Ramon's next is a real he-man role in "Huddle," a football yarn. What an amusing person he is and what an unspoiled lad.

Seen and Heard

A noble defense of Hollywood has just been written by Roy Del Ruth in a magazine article called "Conferences and Conferences." Someone was remarking the other day that the novelists have been yessing the movie colony to death the last few months. Too many jobs here and, besides, it's out of style to attack the picture business. Our scouts report there is merry competition in New York over the purchase of Robert Sherwood's play, "Reunion in Vienna." So far Lewis Milestone and Joseph Schenck are reported as being ahead in the bidding. Myrna Loy who, today, is one of the most successful free-lance players, has been put into the role of "Night Club" at Universal, intended for Estelle Taylor. Miss Taylor is reported as doing nicely, but impatient to be out of her cast.

New Cohen and Kelly

Can it be that Universal is planning to team pretty June Clyde and Norman Foster? They emoted together in "Steady Company" and now they have been put into "The Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood" as the juvenile interest. This next edition of "The Cohens and Kellys" features George Sidney and Charlie Murray, the original members of this now famous series. Bertha Mann (Mrs. Raymond Griffith) plays one of the wives, John Francis Dillon is directing. This, we are told, is to be one of the most elaborate of the "Cohens and Kellys" pictures. After Mr. Foster signed his contract he learned he had five days to wait before the picture was to start. So he hopped a plane to New York to see his wife, Claudette Colbert, who hasn't been very well.

New Film for Dolores

"Congal," Helen Menken's tremendously vital stage play, is being secretly prepared by Paramount for the screen. Harry Hervey, author, is on his way to Hollywood to write the adaptation and see that it does not suffer in its screen translation. I had thought that perhaps Miss Menken would play the exotic role she created on the stage, but here's a surprise. Dolores Del Rio will have the colorful part as soon as she finishes "Bird of Paradise." That won't be right away, because Dolores and the "Bird of Paradise" company are sailing to Honolulu today, and it will be six weeks at least before the picture is completed.

RAMON NOVARRO surrounded by four reporters while he told amusing tales of his recent visit to New York. JOAN CRAWFORD in becoming dress and hat of green, lunching with MRS. CLARK GABLE at the Embassy. BEN LYON at the same place, table hopping and telling some good stories. JAMES HOWE, world-famous Chinese cameraman, entertaining with a real Chinese dinner in honor of FRANK BORZAGE, CAROLE LOMBARD and her equally famous husband, WILLIAM POWELL, at Arrowhead Springs. Others reported enjoying the mountain air, MARILYN MILLER and the WARNER OLANDS. JEAN HERSHOLT, looking very happy in a pale green suit with lavender tie, all a part of his makeup in "Are You Listening." That's all today. See you tomorrow!

HERALD EDITOR DIES SUDDENLY

William J. Fitzpatrick, night city editor of the Boston Herald and one of the best known and most highly respected newspaper men in Boston, died suddenly yesterday in his home, 218 South st., Jamaica Plain, where he had lived for the last 10 years. He was 44 years old.

Funeral arrangements will be made after the arrival from Washington of his brother John J. Fitzpatrick managing editor of the Washington Times. Besides the brother, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Louise Mary Lynch.

At various times during his nearly 30 years' experience with Boston papers he had been employed either on the staffs or in executive positions on the Post, old Record, American, Traveler and Herald. On each he earned a reputation for capability, conscientiousness and energy. Few newspaper men could boast of more friends.

He graduated from Harvard with the class of 1908, and during his college course covered news and sports events for the Post. A few weeks before his graduation he covered the Chelsea fire, a task which would ordinarily have been assigned to a veteran member of the staff.

He joined the Post as soon as he was graduated and later worked on the Record and the American. During the war he joined the Traveler staff and because of his outstanding ability later was made city editor. Later he returned to the American, where he was night city editor for nine years, and two years ago became associated with the Herald. A year ago he was made night city editor.

For a time he was a vice-commodore of the South Boston Yacht Club.

The American's guest will be chosen tonight from among the names registered at the theater of patrons who have witnessed "Forbidden." All that is necessary to become eligible, is write your name and address legibly, and deposit it at RKO Keith's before the close of tonight's show.

No one connected with RKO Keith's theaters, Columbia Pictures or the Boston Evening American will be eligible.

The United Fruit Company will make the trip one never to be forgotten. Guests aboard the Tolca, with every convenience of a first class hotel, the desirable people one meets on such a tour, the sights in picturesque Havana, the return trip with pleasant memories and adventures too numerous to mention will make the trip a prize that anyone might like to win.

"LUCKIES do not cause throat irritation"

BILL'S A RARE BOYD!

He landed in Cal. with 35c... drilled for oil, which proved to be banana oil... lumbered around in a lumber camp... and spent 7 years playing gigantic parts like a private in the Russian army... now he's back in a lumber camp in his new PATHE PICTURE, "BAD TIMBER." Bill scored a first on LUCKIES—he's smoked them 14 years, and was glad to say so without any remuneration. You're mighty kind, Bill Boyd!

"Certainly I smoke LUCKIES. I've been smoking them since 1917. In those 14 years I've tried other brands, but LUCKIES are the only cigarettes I like. Furthermore, in my profession, I must consider my throat, and LUCKIES do not cause throat irritation."

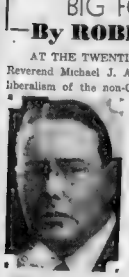
THIS IS LIFE

SMITH'S 3 "HANDICAPS" WOULD STILL BE TOO BIG FOR VICTORY

—By ROBERT E. ROGERS—

AT THE TWENTIETH CENTURY Club last week the Reverend Michael J. Ahearn paid a generous tribute to the liberalism of the non-Catholics of the United States, as evidenced by the vote in the 1928 presidential election. In his characteristic fashion Father Ahearn, while praising the religious tolerance of America, did not pretend to blink at the fact that to a considerable extent the election turned on the fact that Alfred E. Smith is a Catholic.



ROBERT E. ROGERS

There are about 5,000,000 Catholic voters in the United States, said Father Ahearn—which seems a fair estimate—and there were some 15,000,000 votes cast for Mr. Smith, an astonishing and gratifying record for him and his party. Obviously, then, at least 10,000,000 of those votes must have been cast by citizens who disregarded the religious question entirely and voted on the basis of Mr. Smith's superb record as governor of New York, his statesmanlike qualities in administration, his undoubted capacity for leadership, for inspiring loyalty and enthusiasm, and his markedly human and likable personality. If I am not mistaken, his vote was the greatest popular vote ever cast for a Democratic candidate.

* * *

Party's Chances Better This Year

That vote was the more remarkable in that he was running against the "wonder man," who, millions of people honestly expected, would put politics on a genuinely scientific and engineering basis and so permanently solve our governmental problem.

If the Democratic party did so well in 1928, it may confidently expect to do much better in 1932. The chance of the Democratic party to win in November seems far better than a 50-50 chance. This is agreed by almost every dispassionate observer. This being so, it is perhaps worth while to examine the question whether the Democratic party dares to trust to Governor Smith again as its standard-bearer. The loyal and convinced Smith supporters would do well to consider the question: Which is the more important, loyalty to a beloved candidate or party success in a year when success seems really probable?

In 1928 Governor Smith was a dark horse. Now he has a record. And that record, despite his magnificent popular vote, is disquieting. The reason for the disquiet is the same as that contained in the recent pronouncement of the new head of the Anti-Saloon League: That while a prohibition referendum by states might be considered, a popular referendum cannot be allowed, since the 18th amendment can be repealed only by three-fourths of the states, not of the population.

In that peculiarity of our governmental system lies the reason why Gov. Smith lost in 1928, and why, I am convinced, he would lose again. A popular vote of 15,000,000 is a magnificent testimony, even against the 21,000,000 popular vote of Mr. Hoover. But 87 electoral votes do not look so good against Mr. Hoover's 444.

* * *

Small Percentage of Whole

Of the "solid South" Mr. Smith carried Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, and South Carolina and Mississippi. In addition, he barely carried Massachusetts, and little Rhode Island. None of these, except Massachusetts, carries a large number of electoral votes. The bulk of his votes were in a number of large states, where an enormous number of votes was polled but where he lost. Of the states in the South normally Democratic, he lost Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Texas, Tennessee, and Virginia. Of the great wet states supposedly safe for him he lost New Jersey and New York.

Still more disquieting is a comparison of his percentage of the total vote cast with that of Bryan, Wilson, Davis and Cox in the past. Smith's percentage of the total vote cast was 41.2. In 1892 Cleveland won with 46.1; in 1896 Bryan lost with 46.8; in 1900 Bryan lost with 45.5; in 1904 Parker lost with 37.5; in 1908 Bryan lost with 43; in 1912 Wilson won with 41.8; in 1916 Wilson won again by the skin of his teeth with 49.2; in 1920 Cox lost with 34.2; in 1924 Davis lost with 28.8.

In other words, only the three weakest of recent Democratic candidates, Parker, Cox and Davis, polled a smaller percentage of votes than Smith; and even Bryan, the loser, consistently polled a heavier percentage.

The reason for this is clear. In spite of Father Ahearn's kindly tributes to American liberalism, there are huge sectors in the United States whose strength lies in the fact that they are not liberal and do not wish to be. The Fundamentalist South and the Agricultural West are the strongholds of many concentrated prejudices. Much as we may deplore this, it remains a fact. This fact, plus our electoral college system, makes it almost impossible that Governor Smith can be elected President, even granting the tremendous power of popular dissatisfaction caused by the depression.

* * *

Faces Three Major "Handicaps"

The Republican party is homogeneous; the Democratic party is badly split on matters which have no relation to one another. Large areas of the Fundamentalist South have absolutely no use for Catholics; the dry South and West seem still to be strongly against the wets. And the rural voters in the same parts are deeply suspicious of the great industrial cities of the East, particularly of Tammany-ruled New York.

Now, it is Governor Smith's peculiar position that he must bear the burden of all three of these prejudices. It may be, from one point of view, to his glory; but not to his practical success or the success of his party. You can't argue with a Fundamentalist; you can't argue with a fanatical Dry; you can't argue with a rural Democrat who has heard all about Tammany.

The other possible Democratic candidates have to bear one or another of these prejudices, at the most two, but Alfred E. Smith is the only one who has to battle all three. That fact, I am convinced, beat him in 1928. That fact, I am convinced, will still beat him in 1932. Because of the depression and the general distrust of the Republican party and of Mr. Hoover, he would poll a much larger popular vote and even a much larger electoral vote. But I do not believe it would be large enough. Ancient and ingrained prejudices go deeper than temporary economic dissatisfaction.

It is a condition and not a theory which confronts the De

Frankie Gustin's Mob on Trail of His Slayers

KNOW NOW WHO KNOCKED OFF LEADER

Have Established Identity of Pair Who Fled Over Roofs After North End Slaying

By THE MASKED REPORTER

Copyright, 1932, by Boston Evening American

The Gustin gang turned detectives several days ago and learned more in a few hours than the Boston police have been able to learn in a month.

In a month.

They know who killed their leader, Frankie Wallace, and his lieutenant, Barney Walsh, in the North End hallway ambush on the afternoon of Dec. 22.

Masked Reporter

They know the two gunmen, birdlings of a North End mobchieftan, who escaped over roof-tops after they assisted in laying down the barrage that caught their unsuspecting pals in its withering fire.

By diligent search and painstaking investigation they have learned the identity of every North End gangster who was in the office of Joe Lombardi in the Testa Building on Hanover st. at the hour of the shooting.

NEW FIGURE INVOLVED

Some of the information they gathered would startle the police if they chanced to uncover it. The Gustin detectives have found that one North Ender, heretofore unsuspected by the police, was in at the killing.

The police never sought to question that particular gunman and nobody appears to be interested in his whereabouts. Excepting, of course, those members of the Gustin gang who are seeking vengeance.

His name has been passed on to me with other information that the Gustin detectives gathered in the North End. He and one other member of the killer squad that lay in wait that day have "taken it on the lam."

SECOND DEPARTS

The second gunman was questioned by the police, but they had nothing on him and had to let him go. He hung around the North End for a while and did a little indiscreet talking. Then word was passed to him that he had been "fingered" and he was advised to seek a change of climate. He did.

His departure did not halt the Gustin investigation, however. They had two important factors to aid them in their probe of the shooting and one was the fourth member of the gang who walked into the Testa building that afternoon and got out again alive.

The police haven't yet learned who he was and so far as I know are satisfied that Timothy Coffey was the only member of the Gustin gang who walked into the building and out again.

At any rate there was a fourth and he supplied the mob with a few first hand observations of the events that took place in that bullet-riddled corridor.

Piecing this information together with other details the gangster-detectives learned that two of the killers left the Testa building by a side door, rushed across the alley to a doorway in the adjoining building and climbed to the roof.

They ran across the roof tops to North st., bolted downstairs into the street and away. The Gustins know just who those two were.

UNIQUE MODEL OF CONSTITUTION

Elmer Tanner, East Boston marine builder and one of the most noted in the country, is now working on small scale partial deck view of the famous frigate Constitution, which will be placed in one of New England's memorials. He is constructing, on a scale of one inch to the foot, a part-deck view of the famous fighting ship, complete in detail, showing guns, the various deck equipment and a shattered boat hanging from a davit. Mr. Pitman, another artist in miniature work, is constructing the figures of 55 miniature men, who will be placed in various positions on the craft. When completed, the model of both men and ship equipment will show a graphic battle in which the Constitution took part, realistic in color and detail. (International Newsreel photo.)

EVICTED TWO IN ONE FIGHT, SAYS ORNE

Somerville Water Dept. Foreman Says He Punched Another in Automobile

A marital mixup which sent one couple scampering off to the divorce court and a second home to a happy reconciliation was revealed in a hearing before Judge Arthur E. Beane in Middlesex Probate Court.

The petition was brought by Ralph Orne, of Somerville, water department foreman. He charged that his diminutive and pretty wife, Elizabeth, drank to excess and was cruel to him

DECISION PENDING

Mrs. Orne opposed the petition, denying that she was addicted to intoxicating liquors or had been overfriendly with other men. The case was taken under advisement.

The second couple was involved in the case yesterday when Orne admitted he had leaped on the running board of an automobile and punched a "Mr. Rand," who escorted Mrs. Orne home one night. Some time later, on another occasion, when Mrs. Orne was out, the husband received a visit from Mrs Helen M. Rand, of Audubon rd., who called in search of her husband, he said.

Learning that neither her husband nor Mrs. Orne was at the Orne home, Mrs. Rand made herself comfortable and waited, it was testified.

HUSBAND SUMMONED

When Mrs. Orne returned and was confronted by the unexpected guest, she admitted Rand had driven her home and the aggrieved husband and wife summoned him to the Orne home for an explanation, Orne declared.

According to Orne, the gathering then adjourned to a Boston restaurant where Rand was to present a witness to substantiate his claim that he had met Mrs. Orne accidentally while she was shopping.

EVICTS FRIENDS

Orne's testimony continued to reveal unpleasant incidents with friends of his wife. On one occasion, he said, he found his wife in the hallway with her arms around the neck of one of the friends, entreating him to remain after he called for a short visit. The friend left with Orne in pursuit, it was said.

After being out himself one night, Orne said the court, he returned to find his wife entertaining two men. He ordered them to depart, he said, and one knocked three of his teeth out. Nevertheless, the pair left, one going through the glass in the front door, Orne testified.

Watertown Man Is Victim of Attack

O'Connor, 24, of 11 Summer st., Watertown, who was brought to Cambridge Hospital Tuesday night in a dazed condition and seriously injured, by a well-dressed woman who disappeared without identifying herself, told police he believed he was the victim of an attack. O'Connor said he could remember nothing after being struck

Two Freed at Fake Auto Claims Trial

Enrico Meligrano, Michael D'Ambrosio and Dr. Louis Mendoza, three of the five defendants on trial in Suffolk superior criminal court charged with conspiracy to steal from three insurance companies by way of false auto accidents, rested their cases late yesterday without offering any testimony.

Judge Edward F. Hanify ordered verdicts of not guilty for D'Ambrosio and Meligrano and they were discharged.

Youth Held for Waltham Break

Daisy Torn Between Her Two Loves

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Daisy Beaumont, vivacious young blonde, is arrested and charged with "soliciting," but Capt. Jim Fitzpatrick of the homicide squad has her released. In the meantime, four men are found murdered in a warehouse. Capt. Jim is convinced that "Big Boy" Belmonte is responsible, and swears to get the "Big Boy" and his whole gang, but he receives orders for duty in the suburbs. At Glendale he captures three bank robbers and is urged by the press for the chief of police job.

[illegible] Daisy is going to steer that Fitzpatrick dick over to Calli's and we'll just happen in—get me?" Cholo nodded, but his lip curled slightly. Belmonte walked close to him.

"And you, sap—keep your head," he said in warning tones.

"Okay, boss—but you know how I feel about that girl," he muttered, tossing his half-smoked cigarette toward the open fire-place.

"I don't give a damn how you feel—I'm runnin' this show. We'll get that chump, Fightin' Jim, through his kid brother, Ed. Wait and see. Just leave it up to me."

"I'm leavin' it up to you—but it burns me up—Daisy seems to have fallen for that copper—fallen good and hard"

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Nothin' only my feelin's. I got some feelin's."

"Yeah? Well, we all got feelin's. You nearly queered things once before by foolin' with the blonde. She walked out on me and I had to do some fast work to get her back. But I got her in a spot now. She'll play the one-way game."

"After that?"

"After that—take the moll—what the hell do I care? But first, I want to get even with that Fitzpatrick." Then he chuckled to himself and said half aloud. "Who the hell does he think he is, that he can treat Guiseppe Belmonte that way? An' goes and plugs two o' my boys an' lams the other in jail in that tank stick-up? The newspapers say he'll be chief—huh!"

MAYOR GORDON was a politician with a public fixation. He swayed like the supple branches of the weeping willow tree to the breeze of general opinion—especially just before election time, because popular sentiment was visualized by him as so many votes—as long as it could be done without offending the machine—generally spelled MACHINE.

So when the Civic Reform Committee called on him the day after Capt. Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick had captured the three bank robbers, he gave ear respectfully, and then called in Chief Burton. The chief, whose uniform consisted of a smart blue serge business suit, blue regulation shirt and dark blue tie, spats and soft fedora, came in breezily, beamed on the mayor and took his seat in the chair which had been drawn up for him

"What is it, Henry?" he demanded really, "I suppose you want to confer with me on that new contract I put over for the clean-up week publicity—"

BURTON IS FIRED

"Now, listen, George," and the Mayor fingered the telephone cord and avoided the other's gaze, "I appreciate that, okay—but there's something else I want to talk to you about—"

"By all means," exclaimed Chief Burton, whipping out a handkerchief which filled the room with the delicate odor of lavender toilet water.

"Well, George, what I want to say is this," continued the Mayor, "this job ain't in the class—you're too good for it—I have a better one, more befitting your dignity—I—"

"Oh, forget it, Henry," smiled Chief Burton. "I'm running the department just like you want it run—you know that—"

"But I need a man to head the Committee for the Reception of Distinguished Guests," he leaned forward in a confidential manner, "And you, George, are just the man."

Chief Burton narrowed his eyes and gazed in silence at the Mayor.

"Looks like an exit-out to me," he said eventually

"Now, don't take it that way, George," urged the Mayor, a hurt expression coming over his face. "I can't help it—you see the news-

NEW MODEL WORRY WANTS NEW WORD FOR DOLE

By GILBERT SELDES

THERE ARE FASHIONS IN WORRY as in everything else and the Winter models are now out. Old-fashioned unemployment isn't worrying anyone much, except the unemployed, whose charity has its drive and has exhausted its possibilities, the temporary flurry in solid gold has blown over and a strange silence has met the most revolutionary announcement that there will be no style whatever in German reparations, not even last year's Young model (which was merely a different cutting of the old Dawes style). We are all busy stabilizing and those who cannot stabilize are looking for a new word for the dole. Even Chairman Payne, of the Red Cross, has set his hat at a different angle, if he hasn't actually thrown away his cold topper and gone in for slouching.

GILBERT SELDES

Fever-Chart

It is not particularly noble or generous of us to stop thinking of the unemployed while the unemployed are starving, we ought to be able to think of them as individuals (and to do something for and about them) even if we have to consider them as "one of the many factors in a large scheme of readjustment." Unemployment may be a symptom; so is a high temperature. And doctors often do not wait for blood tests and complete diagnoses before they make the patient comfortable, and prevent his burning away, by cold applications. Charity is notoriously cold; but in this case coldness isn't appropriate.

Blowing Things Up

I recognize, for the first time, a trace of style in President Hoover's utterance. He says we cannot squander ourselves into prosperity; and what he means is that whatever money is supplied must go to certain agencies, and be used in certain ways, while others, not on the approved list, must do without. This is constructive statesmanship or sound economics, and has naturally nothing to do with politics, only signifying that when we get ready to inflate, we'll inflate the right balloons.

Government in Business

If I am sceptical of the legislation now before Congress, it is not because I have any superior devices to offer. When the financial editors boil down a proposal to its essence, they tell us that the vast resources of the whole country (expressed in a government financing corporation) will be placed behind individual banks; a persistent, nagging worry will be simultaneously removed from the back of our minds; what we have in the banks may not be much, but we are just as pleased to know that it is still there. And there is something satisfactory in the thought that the government as a whole is acting for the country as a whole; it makes us believe that ten years from now America will still stand. It may make other people believe that the government has gone into business on a scale ten thousand times as great as Socialists have ever hoped for.

Save One Style

In some such jumbled way a great many people sense a change in the tone of the depression. It has driven even politicians to study economics; and even if they choose the wrong course, or merely the more difficult course, at least they have stopped playing politics.

Yet isn't it possible that some of last year's styles of thinking have been discarded a little too soon? Wasn't there, for one fine week, the fashionable idea that "no one in America shall starve"? Couldn't we wear that—say on Sundays—with economics for every day.

A Graceful Bow

A chief justice of the Supreme court and a president of a great steel corporation resigned on the same day. If European and Europeanized American critics of America were right, the judge should have had 10 lines in the paper, the steel man a page. Actually Justice Holmes got the page, and Mr. Farrell a small column. Actually it matters very much to us who is appointed to the bench, and little who is appointed to be head of steel.

It is often said that Justice Holmes did not relish the enthusiasm of liberals; he certainly did not think of himself as a liberal judge because he thought of himself as a just one. He had a philosophy of life which underlay his philosophy of law and this philosophy, which made him liberal, was refreshing because it was at least 150 years old and as new as creative evolution.

A Noble Experiment

He said: "The Constitution is an experiment," adding that all life is an experiment. Jefferson, believing that a nation ought to have a little revolution now and then to get rid of established abuses, had the same idea. It is an idea hostile to many creeds, although it goes back to the ancient belief that man is God's experiment on earth. It is against the dead hand of institutions, of rigid and unchangeable law; it is against inanimate property and for living human beings. And it adds dignity to the dignified calling of our highest judges because it leaves them free to go beyond explaining and applying the law and makes them interpreters of the wisdom behind the law

Saving the Constitution

Justice Holmes, in his decisions, said many other things heartening to those of us who are a little dismayed by the ignobility of men in public office. On the subject of wire-tapping (which covers the stool-pigeons of prohibition enforcement) he made it clear that the government could acquire evidence by means themselves criminal; but he held it preferable that a few criminals should escape, and the nation should remain honorable. He had a feeling for the human beings upon whom the law lays its heavy hand; and he was not a sentimentalist.

What makes him so impressive was the lesson he gave us that men of great traditions could be alert to change, that aristocrats of birth and breeding could look down with scorn on the greed of their class. His father saved Old Ironsides, which was known as the Constitution, by writing a poem about it; the son saved the Constitution by proving that it was a living instrument of justice, and not a rigid body of rules laid down for the protection of the powerful.

JIGGS INVITES ALL TO SHARE IN CELEBRATION

Maybe you have been following "Educando a Papa."

Perhaps you have chuckled over "Vihtori Ja Klaara."

Or you may have had your days in the past lightened by the laughs in "Gyldenspjaet."

In any event, and no matter under what name, you have been entertained by "Bringing Up Father," for these are the translations of George McManus' famous comic strip, respectively given for "Bringing Up Father" in Spanish speaking countries, in Finland and in Denmark.

HAS DIFFERENT NAMES

In spite of the universal recognition given him, Jiggs is not known by the same name everywhere, for the reason that the word Jiggs would be just as much gibberish in some languages as "Gyldenspjaet" is in ours.

Even China is included in the 71 countries where more than 100,000,000 people delight in perusing "Bringing Up Father" each day, even after 20 years, but there is no spelling out the Chinese title with ordinary letters.

Speaking of China, when "Bringing Up Father" was first introduced in that country, Jiggs had to forego his corned beef and cabbage, which Maggie professes so to despise, and had to eat rice instead.

This was because the Chinese never had heard of corned beef and cabbage. A year or more ago, however, several boatloads of canned corned beef were shipped to China—and now the Chinese understand what the dish is.

Incidentally, in China it is believed that George McManus created corned beef and cabbage as a dish.

LOOKING FOR CELEBRATORS

And now—where were you 20 years ago this January? Were you being joined in wedlock, as Jiggs and Maggie were being joined by George McManus to give laughs to people of the world for two decades thus far?

If you were, Jiggs and Maggie want to join you in celebration—and they have a memento for you. And naturally you and the missus, or the hubby, weren't the only ones married in January, 1912, and you may have friends married at the same time.

They will be interested also in the desire of Jiggs and Maggie for a joint celebration.

ANNIVERSARY DINNER

On the occasion of their 20th anniversary, Jiggs and Maggie—and of course their creator, George McManus—will be feted all over the country, with the principal feature a huge dinner in Washington on January 25, to be broadcast over a nation-wide hookup.

To commemorate theirs and your 20th anniversaries, Jiggs and Maggie have a beautiful picture, in full colors, from George McManus. On it, Jiggs and Maggie, all aglow with having steered successfully through their first 20 years, stand encircled by the symbolic wedding ring, waving their greetings to you.

At the top are proudly inscribed your names and the words "Heartiest Congratulations, 1912-1932." The picture bears McManus' personal signature and comes on the finest Japanese stock, size 8 inches by 10, ready for framing.

All you need do to get this anniversary memento is write to Jiggs and Maggie, in care of the Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, and Jiggs and Maggie will send you the birthday card.

Girls to Learn How to Invest and Make Money

Presented with $10,000 each with which to play the stock market, three young women in the secretarial course at Burdett College today started on the first lap of a race to see who can make the most money in two months.

The money, of course, is only paper and the investments will be imaginary ones. This is part of the financial studies given at the school by Vice-President H. N. Rasely, who believes that the students should be well equipped to aid their future employers in their investments and should also know how to intelligently invest. In this problem the young ladies will act as his secretaries.

For the two months the girls, who are the Misses Anne Missin of Jamaica Plain, Ruth Proctor of Waltham and Doris Greene of Somerville, will investigate the background of companies, and follow the investments and their issues day by day through the daily papers.

FOR BRIDES OF JAN.—1912

Were you married in 1912? Does your 20th wedding anniversary fall in January—this year? Then you are entitled to the beautiful memento of Jiggs' and Maggie's 20th wedding anniversary. It is in colors. Write to Jiggs and Maggie, care of the Boston Evening American. It will be sent to you at once.

MAYOR REFUSES POLICE RAISES

During a conference at City Hall with Police Commissioner Hultman, which lasted more than two hours, Mayor Curley definitely declined to approve $100 salary increases for 530 patrolmen or the extra $25 for the valor medal policeman.

The police commissioner reiterated his contention that the increased appropriations were required to maintain the morale of his department, pointing out that the men accepted the positions at $1600 for the first year with the agreement that they should receive $100 each year in increases until they reached the $2100 maximum at the end of six years of service.

The commissioner recalled the mayor's demands for higher pay for the police during the administration of former Mayor Peters.

Defending his position of that era, the mayor explained that those were prosperous days, but he insisted yesterday that he could not find any way to justify salary increases for anyone at this time. The mayor and the commissioner agreed to hold another conference within the next few days.

Commr. Fox Heads Catholic Union

Charles J. Fox, budget commissioner of Boston, was elected president of the Catholic Union of Boston at the annual meeting at the headquarters, Washington and Worcester sts., South End. Fox succeeds Charles A. Winchester, former state senator.

It was decided at the meeting to give a contribution to charity from the proceeds of the annual ball to be held at the Copley Plaza hotel on January 28.

'FEDS' PROBING 'HIJACK' PLOT

Government officials are planning to question guards at the U. S. appraisers stores following revelation that a North End gang, unsuccessful in an attempt to bribe a guard, planned to murder him and hijack liquor stored in the government warehouse.

The bold plan was revealed to police of the Milk st. station on Tuesday by Joseph Cooney, hijacker and holdup man, arrested in a North End raid on Monday. He told police he had overheard members of a North End gang discussing the plans.

Police checked through various underworld sources and checked Cooney's story. Customs officials were notified and the guard at the building was immediately doubled.

Meanwhile Cooney and Anthony Imbelcatto, whom he named as a holdup gang leader, have remained unidentified in the police lineup by holdup victims. They were released into the custody of Belmont police and will face hijacking charges there. Salvatore Venuti, arrested with Cooney, is being held.

In connection with his case, police arrested Joseph F. Brencola of Lewis st., North End, charging him with assault and battery. Brencola admitted wounding Venuti in the leg when the latter demanded "protection" money from Brencola's parents.

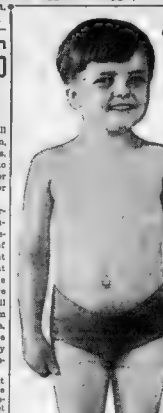
To Mothers

whose children won't eat



NATURE knows best. Never coax a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California fig syrup is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct that condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

Children who get fig syrup, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California fig syrup. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A single IF

The promises made by the bottlers of California Fig Syrup are true, and IF it will do the same for you, IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup. Don't accept substitutes.

WARNING!

Counterfeit Aspirin!

THOUSANDS of boxes of counterfeit aspirin have been put on the market. Watch out. Take no chances and flatly refuse to accept any box not marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." Don't put any tablet not marked "Bayer" in your stomach. Tell your family and your friends of this. Refuse any preparation offered you as the "same" or "like" Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

DEMAND AND ACCEPT ONLY THIS BOX, THIS "BAYER" MARKED TABLET.

Marry-Go-Round

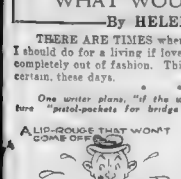
IF LOVE SHOULD GO OUT—WHAT WOULD WE DO?

By HELEN ROWLAND

THERE ARE TIMES when I can't help wondering what I should do for a living if love and marriage should ever go completely out of fashion. Things are so changeable and uncertain, these days.

• • •

One writer plans, "if the writing-racket fails," to manufacture "pistol-pockets for bridge gowns." Another contemplates making "torso trunks that won't seep."



• • •

But, when you think of it, it's only now and then that you need a pistol or a "torso-trunk"; whereas there are hundreds of daily necessities, that would fill a long-felt want.

• • •

Oh, well, if the love-racket fails and marriage becomes obsolete, I'll just put the little typewriter away, and do something practical.

• • •

Perhaps I'll invent a lip-rouge that won't come off on the collar. Or a linen collar that won't show the lip-rouge.

• • •

Or patent an arm-rest for the backs of taxicabs and rumble-seats. Just to save a man a lot of argument and energy, and a girl a lot of money for fresh marcels.

• • •

Or I might manufacture a non-breakable glass screen to go across the middle of bridge-tables, so that husbands and wives could hurl things at each other without hitting anybody.

• • •

Or devise a magnetised chair that will keep a husband in the house, nights. Or insert a radio that would tune in on Amos 'n' Andy and the Ave Maria, at the same time—and thus keep peace in the family.

• • •

Or I might design an ash-proof rug and a gravy-proof tablecloth, for careless husbands and fastidious wives. Or originate a way of cooking spinach, so that it would look and taste like buckwheat cakes and sausage. Or make a finger-trap for people who insist on using guest-towels.

• • •

Or, if all else failed, I could run for Congress—on the promise to introduce a bill requiring divorce decrees to be printed on the back of all marriage certificates.

• • •

Oh, yes, there are lots of ways for a bright girl to earn a living, if she will keep her ear to the ground and consider the popular demand for convenient little dee-vices.

papers have started in on me——"

"But you don't care about the newspapers, do you? They criticise you and me no matter what we do——"

"Yes, but election's coming on," said the mayor made this statement with appropriate profundity and finality.

Chief Burton tapped his cane nervously on the floor.

"And whom are you going to put in my place?" he asked.

DAISY'S BIRTHDAY

"Well, I think Fitzpatrick's the man for the job—he's the one the newspapers are howling for, and the Civic Reform Committee suggested him."

"Fitzpatrick—huh! Looks like you are planning to make a fool of me," and Chief Burton snorted in disgust. "Very well."

"I knew, George, you'd see my trend of thought," grinned the mayor enigmatically.

Daisy Beaumont was torn between two loves—love of Sergt. Ed Fitzpatrick and love of life. Daisy was sorry she had ever met Ed, for she knew now that her affection for him was dangerous. She knew that Belmonte intended to get even with Fighting Jim through his brother and she knew that it was through her that he would twist the screws on Ed. And if she didn't marry him as the wily Belmonte wanted her to play it her own life was on a hair trigger. But Daisy was a resourceful girl. She was sure she would wriggle a way out of it all and that she and Ed could have each other.

On the night of her birthday she had made up her mind. She would work things out in her own way—for her own good and for the good of Ed. But she would not take him in her confidence. She would play a hazardous game play it with a lone hand, play the cards with queens up on jacks.

Ed came to her place at exactly eight o'clock. He had a big package and a little package. The big one contained six bottles of champagne and the little one a bottle of perfume. Daisy put the champagne on ice and the perfume on the table. When Ed tried to kiss her she pushed him away and standing hands on hips, taunted him.

"I see you didn't go broke, dearest—spending all that money on perfume!"

Ed looked at her a moment in astonishment.

"What did you want—a sable coat?" he demanded. "And is that a nice way to talk." I didn't think between you and me the value in dollars and cents would count so much—"

"Oh, it isn't that," shrugged Daisy. "But I do think you could have spread yourself a little—what's the matter—broke?"

"Now, listen, Daisy," snorted Ed. "Don't try to take me for a ride. Anyway, that perfume ain't so cheap—"

"Well, I might have had a real birthday present if I wanted to so—so to certain fellows—don't forget that."

"Aw—you're just clownin'—tryin' to steam me up, eh?" He walked toward her and tried to put his arm around her waist. "Come on, give Ed a little kiss," he said.

"Nothin' doin'," exclaimed Daisy. "I ain't sore—get me straight But anyway, I think you could have promoted a necklace, or a ring—or somethin' that I could remember you by—perfume don't last so long you know—"

"Aw, what the hell, Daisy," cried Ed. "You knew I don't make so much dough—what's the idea"

"Well, you could if you wanted to—there's lots of ways."

BLUE HATS FOR SPRING

One Recent Model From Le Monnier

SKETCHED IN PARIS

At the left is sketched a recent model from Le Monnier. It is of bright blue felt with a shallow crown worn very much to one side. Piecings, joined by raised seams, are shaped to a point at the center of the crown, giving it somewhat the shape of an acorn.

The other sketch shows a small, mid-season hat from Mme. Jose's newest collection. It is made entirely of navy taffeta with inset bands of the same taffeta stitched in close diagonal rows.

First Love Was Best to Her

By WINIFRED BLACK

SHE DIED the other night—the woman we've all known so many, many times, sad, happy, glorious, miserable, eventful years.

An old woman, she was, as time has counted, but somehow in her heart there seemed to gush the fountain of eternal youth and her mind was as young and vigorous as it was in the early 30's, when people said that she was going to make her mark in the world.

Many remember she had seen this woman who died the other night. She's been poor in Paris and rich in London. She's been broke in New York and wearing orchids and violets in San Francisco.

She had had many admirers, this woman who died the other night. I know of two men high in the political world, three important editors, two well known actors, one foreign diplomat of internationally known painter and—yes, there was a sculptor, too, come to think of it—and at least a dozen old navy business men.

All this was when she was young and in her prime. As she grew older, she grew of course more quiet, more settled in her ways. She gathered a few friends around her and read, talked and listened to music, and was happy in a quiet, uneventful sort of way.

She married three times, the woman who died the other night. The first man was young and poor, and very handsome. The second man was handsome and rich, or supposed to be rich. The third man was clever, distinguished and rich.

But when the tide turned the other night down at the beach, and the woman we all knew lay listening to the rush of the waters, suddenly she opened her eyes, and there were young again and bright, and full of mysterious surprise.

"Oh!" she sighed, and those who knew her well enough knew that was the moment she took the hand of her youth so young—so handsome and so poor.

"Olaf, I knew you'd wait for me."

And so she went out, with the surging tide, and with the name of her first love on her lips.

I wonder where the other two men she had married were?

Daily True Story

The Only Girl

WHEN THEY were children their parents used to say, "Wouldn't it be nice if Joan married David when they grow up." And others, watching them play together, would say, "Yes, wouldn't it."

When David was old enough to know what "getting married" meant he made a face at Joan and said: "Don't think I'm going to marry you just because my mother wants me to. I'm going to marry a girl with black hair, not old yellow hair like yours." Joan said: "I wouldn't marry you even if my mother whipped me."

When they went to high school together David would ask to be chums. "You're that Joan Rodney, she thinks she's something. Did I ever tell you that when we were kids our parents wanted us to marry each other?"

The next four years saw both of them grow out of childhood. When David came back on his vacations he would occasionally meet Joan. He was selling bonds for a company. This deal is a fact that you and then you will be asked "Well Dave, are you going to marry Joan and settle down when you finish college?"

AVOID JOAN

David graduated from college but didn't marry Joan.

David didn't stay home long. He had taken an engineering course at college and there came an opportunity to work on a western irrigation project. He took it and was gone for nearly a year.

But when he came back it started all over again. "Hello, Dave." his friends greeted him. "Have you come home to marry Joan." Better hurry up, because a lot of other fellows are falling over their own feet running after her. Have you seen her lately? She's a mighty pretty girl."

This time Dave only grinned. He was a man now. That was the way he looked at it. He was too old to get sore about being kidded.

Two nights later he met Joan again. "Who's that girl talking to the tall bird?" he asked Tom Rodney. Tom laughed. "Why, that's your old sweetheart, Dave," he said. "You don't mean to say you didn't recognize her?"

But Dave hadn't recognized her. She had changed completely. He hadn't thought of that. He hadn't considered that while he was growing from an awkward youth into a handsome man, Joan was growing from a pretty girl into a beautiful woman. He felt a little jarring in his pulse as he looked at her. She turned and smiled recognition.

"Hello, Dave," she said as he walked up to her. "Glad to see you back again."

Then she introduced him to the man he had been talking to. "This is my old sweetheart," she said. "Only he never would admit it. When we were children our parents wanted us to marry each other. I suppose you have didn't see anything to laugh about."

"How long are you going to be in town?" she asked.

"Just a few days." Dave answered. "I've got an offer from a mining company up in Canada. I think I'll take it. I'll probably be gone four or five years."

"I hope you like it," said Joan. Then she added, "Shall we go in again?" Then went in without speaking. Dave didn't see her again before he left.

When he did leave he was restless, moody. Everything he thought about was more than ambition. He wanted to forget. He had been a fool ever to have left her. Why he had listened at him. He had known her. He owed her. Chicago and sent her a telegram.

DAVE SENDS TELEGRAM

"Joan, I've got to see you. I'm coming home. Please don't marry anyone else until I get there. Dave."

Then he decided that would hold her. That would show her that he didn't care and that he couldn't be roped into marrying her. The more he thought of it the more he decided he hadn't made the telegram plain enough. So he sent another.

"Joan, if you were here I wouldn't marry you. Not even if you asked me to."

The next morning an answer came. His hand shook a little as he opened it and read it.

"Dear Dave," it read. "Don't be angry with me. I didn't ask you to. I'm not going to ask you, but maybe we're both wrong."

Her answer came.

"I didn't think you were ever wrong. When are you going to Canada?"

He wired back.

"I'm not going to Canada. I'm coming back to show you that you were wrong. And how I hate it."

But he didn't get back.

Let's Join in Jiggs' Pet Dish, Cooked a la Capital

By MARTHA LEE

LET'S JOIN Jiggs and Maggie in the celebration of their 20th anniversary and have a real Dinty Moore boiled dinner today. Boiled dinners claim to have originated in New England, but one of the best recipes I've ever found came from Hugo Ziemann, steward of the White House under the Roosevelt administration. Who knows how much of Teddy's famous energy was due to Jiggs' favorite dish?

Anyway, here's a

WHITE HOUSE BOILED DINNER

The aitch-bone and the brisket are considered the best pieces for boiling. If you buy them in the market already corned, they will be fit to put over the fire without a previous soaking in water. Put the beef into a pot, cover with sufficient cold water, place over a brisk fire, let it come to a boil in half an hour; just before boiling remove all the scum from the pot, place the pot on the back of the fire, let it boil very slowly until quite tender.

A piece weighing eight pounds requires two and a half hours' boiling. If you do not wish to eat it hot, let it remain in the pot after you take it from the fire until nearly cold, then lay it in a colander to drain, lay a cloth over it to retain its fresh appearance; serve with horse-radish and pickles.

If vegetables are to accompany this, making it the old-fashioned "boiled dinner," about three-quarters of an hour before dishing up skim the liquor free from fat and turn part of it out into another kettle, into which put a cabbage carefully prepared, cutting it into quarters; also half a dozen peeled medium-sized white turnips cut into halves; scrape four carrots and four parsnips each cut into four pieces. Into the kettle with the meat, about half an hour before serving, pour on more water from the boiling teakettle, and into this put peeled medium-sized potatoes.

This dinner should also be accompanied by boiled beets, sliced hot, cooked separate from the rest, with vinegar over them. Cooking the cabbage separately from the meat prevents the meat from having the flavor of cabbage when cold. The carrots, parsnips and turnips will boil in about an hour. A piece of salt pork was usually boiled with a New England boiled dinner.

T.B. Deaths Are Often Due to Neglect

By DR. R. COPELAND

I KNOW a man who for many years suffered from a hacking cough. His family continuously urged him to consult with a physician. His reply was always the same: "The cough does not bother me and I feel fine. Why should I go to a doctor?" His contracted an acute infection and was confined to his bed. A physician was called discovered that the man was suffering from rather advanced tuberculosis.

Dr. Copeland

This story is all too typical. Too little attention is paid to the danger signals.

One who shows any tendency toward tuberculosis or who has early tuberculosis can be treated at home. The treatment is beneficial only if instructions are carefully followed. Complete rest in bed for one month or longer is imperative. During this time meals should be served in bed.

A daily program is of great value. The following suggestions may be of service to you in forming a schedule: At 8 o'clock serve breakfast, including a glass of milk. At 10 o'clock, another glass of milk is served. At 12 30 lunch is given, and this too should include a glass of milk, and at 4 p. m. milk is again served. Early dinner is important. It should not be served later than 6 30 and must include a glass of milk. Before retiring at 9 p. m. another glass of milk should be served.

Home Quarrels Bad for Child

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

Please help me solve this problem. I am a married woman, 25 years old, and have been married for 8 years. I have two lovely children. I have never loved my husband, but for the sake of my children I am living with him. We have done nothing but scrap and fight, until it is simply unbearable. Would you advise me to leave him?

MOTHER OF TWO.

Mother of 2. Nothing could be worse for children than the effect of squabbling and fussing going on before them. It would almost be better that a home should be broken up—and that is always the last resource—than that a child's first years should be filled by the memories of quarreling parents.

She Watches Her Neighbors

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My girl friend and I have an apartment together and do light housekeeping. There is a young couple living in the apartment next to ours, and it seems to us that the wife should be paying our rent, she is everlastingly in our apartment gossiping about the neighbors. What do you advise me to do about it?

LOUISE.

Dear Louise: Why don't you tell the lady that you are not in the least interested in the comings and goings of the other residents of the apartment house, and won't she be good enough to excuse you from discussing them.

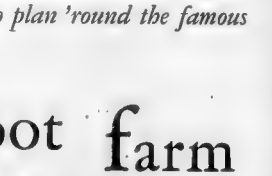
Economical meals are easy to plan 'round the famous

Deerfoot Farm Sausage



YOU'LL save money if you serve Deerfoot Farm Sausage frequently—at luncheon and dinner, as well as breakfast. At the same time you can have the satisfaction of knowing you are not serving a "cheap" or inferior quality meat product.

The tender, roasting cuts of fresh pork, such as you buy for your table, are selected for this famous sausage. Then—and this is very important from a flavor-standpoint—the meat is chopped instead of ground. Lastly, it is deliciously seasoned with our secret blend of savory spices.

For years Deerfoot Farm Sausage has been the favorite of people who know fine food. Try it and see for yourself how much better it is than sausage made to sell at a price.

Any meal is a place to serve Deerfoot Farm Sausage. It combines with most every food—eggs, fried apples, griddle cakes and vegetables of all sorts. Ask your dealer for it—"Fresh from the farm in New England."

Deerfoot Farm linked sausage is sold in pound and half-pound cartons; sausage patties in half-pound cartons; and sausage meat in one and two pound bags.

DEGLANE RISKS MAT TITIE IN CLASH WITH LUTZE

FANNING

By GEORGE UNDERWOOD

"Yussel the Muscle," May Squeeze Out Yet. But Seems in Corner.

The "'ospital Punch." Moran's "Mary Ann." Famous "Iron Mike."

Doctor Gave Billy Naughton 'Solar Plexus Punch'

So they are going to sign the Sharkey-Schmeling papers, to morrow, and everything will be hunky-dory . . . Mebes so—mebbe no . . . But way back in our schooldays, dear old golden rule days mixed up in our readin' and 'riteing and 'rithmetic, it seems we heard old man Virgil remark something about "Timeo Danaos at dona ferentes," and warning the Trojans to "fear the Greeks bearing gifts" . . . Joe "Yussel the Muscle" Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, isn't a Greek, but he's a durned sight more slippery and foxy . . . Joe's capitulation to the Sharkey mob was so sudden and unexpected as to cause some of us to elevate our noses in an endeavor to scent out the dark gre'mans in the woodpile . . . When it comes to squirming out of tight holes Yussel the Muscle can get through openings in which a sardine would be squeezed to death . . . There are times when Yussel would make a corkscrew look like a yamrod and a greased pig seem like sandpaper . . . There are a whole parcel of Rubicons to be crossed before the Sharkey-Schmeling match becomes a reality . . . The percentage split, the no foul rule in N. Y., and a hundred and one loopholes for Jacobs to squirm through and pull Schmeling after him . . . If Mister Jonathan Buckley & Co., don't watch out they'll find the fish they thought hooked has disgorged the bait and they will hear Yussel the Muscle yodeling from the bank, "Wasn't we willin' to fight Sharkey? Didn't we agree to fight him? But you can't blame us for refusing to sign any such contracts as they have offered!" . . . The one fly in Yussel's ointment, however, is that Sharkey is about the only man the fistic populace would pay to see box Schmeling . . . They might pay later to see Dempsey-Schmeling or Dempsey-Sharkey, but the one match wanted first is Sharkey-Schmeling . . . The Sharkey-Schmeling morsel is the only one in sight for Schmeling and Jacobs . . . Looks as if Yussel and Maxie were cornered . . . Even a champion and his manager must eat.

Gunboat Smith, now a referee, says Salvatore Ruggirello who knocked out Walter Cobb and Stan Poreda in jig time recently, is the most dangerous puncher of all the heavyweights . . . The Gunner should know, for he was one of the hardest hitters that ever invaded the ring . . . Jack Dempsey told us the Gunner hit him the hardest punch he ever was hit . . . "The Gunner landed that overhand right swing in the second round," says Dempsey, "and my mind was a blank for a couple of hours. In the Turkish Bath a couple of hours later I thought the fight hadn't started and said to Kearns, 'C'mon Doc, let's go!' It took a lot of persuasion to make me believe the fight was over and I had won the decision" . . . Gunboat Smith's pet punch was the "occipital punch" . . . Bob Edgren first gave it that name because the Gunner's favorite spot to land it was in the region of the occipital bone, behind the ear . . . The fans wouldn't accept the "occipital punch" . . . They called it, "the 'opital punch" . . . The Gunner certainly sent enough poor to the hospital with it . . . Tad was quick to take up "the 'ospital punch" . . . Edgren's "occipital punch" died a natural death but "the 'ospital punch" lived on.

Edgren wasn't the first sports writer to steal an idea from the doctors . . . Years before Billy Naughton, the veteran Hearst sports writer, flashed the "solar plexus punch" on our readers and the name caught like the smallpox . . . Bob Fitzsimmons knocked out Jim Corbett with his celebrated left shift and plain punch to the breadbasket . . . But in the Hearst Special that left Carson City for San Francisco the night after the fight Naughton overheard a doctor describing the effect of blows "in the region of the solar-plexus" . . . Billy cocked up both ears, asked a few questions and sat down to his typewriter . . . At the next telegraph station he put his story on the wire . . . San Francisco the next morning read all about Freckled Bob's "new solar-plexus punch" . . . Papers all over the country picked it up . . . The solar-plexus region is the pit of the stomach, or "the wind," as it is known among the fight gentry . . . Billy Naughton gave the old-fashioned wallop to the breadbasket a new and classy name, that was all.

Frank Moran's "Mary Ann" was a famous punch . . . Frank got it from Sam Langford, via Tad Dorgan . . . Tad and Sam Langford were fanning together one afternoon and the Tar Baby remarked to the cartoonist genius something about landing his "Mary Ann" on an opponent . . . Tad was sketching something about Frank Moran at the time so he dubbed that long haymaking swing of the Barbadian and had the "Mary Ann" . . . It took . . . It stuck . . . Jack Dempsey himself first called his deadly left maule, "Iron Mike" . . . Did it in a joshing bee one night when Jack Kearns was warning him to look out for Battling Levinsky . . . Wishing to re-assure Kearns, Jack piped, "It's all right, Doc Levinsky will not be so dangerous after I lean 'Iron Mike' up against his ribs . . . Kearns started referring to Dempsey's "Iron Mike" and the sports writers and fans quickly picked it up . . . A good slogan, a good name, sometimes means a ton of money.

BOROTRA QUITS FRENCH TEAM

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—French sporting circles were much disturbed today over an article published in Tennis and Golf announcing that Jean Borotra, noted French tennis player, now on Davis Cup team, intends to play as a member of the Davis Cup team this year.

Efforts are being made to have him reconsider his decision. Borotra said pressure of business, fatigue and the fact he is 33 years old made him feel it advisable to retire from Davis Cup competition.

The health of Rene Lacoste is much better this year and the belief has been expressed by some that he might play. The chief burden of the defense of the cup now rests on Henri Cochet. Lacoste told newspaper men today he would not play on the team because as has not time to get into shape.

ONE FIGHTER MANAGES ANOTHER

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP)—"Leaping Lena" is swinging into action

In a small office, hazy with smoke, the only woman prize fight manager in the country sizzled the atmosphere with orders as her camp made ready today to leave for New York where her brother King Levinsky will fight Max Rose January 29.

Mrs Lena Levy, christened "Leaping Lena" by her ring associates, grabbed it, shoving a pompadour aside. Several interested hangers-on out of her inner office

"I'm expecting a long-distance call from New York," she explained.

"Hello, Hello. What's that? Fifteen-round bout, you say? No! no!" she exploded. "The King hasn't trained for 15 rounds. Wait a minute."

She paused as the King, 21-year-old happy-hearted pugilist who has met Carnera and other sport page big names and last week defeated Paulino Uzcudun, eased into the room.

"Well?" demanded his manager "I got a date tonight," announced the king, known also as the "Kingfish" from his one-time occupation of fish dollar

"Just a date Nix Lena York You have not. Bing'"

"Sorry, sis, she's a blonde"

"Can't help it. Sit down and keep quiet," and as the king grinned settled his 191 pounds into a chair, Mrs. Levy returned to the phone

"No, he just can't fight 15 rounds" Then in an aside "See that's part of my job, keeping things from getting too tough Compromise on 12? Don't see why. You'll tell me back later? All right."

Aside went the telephone. Mrs Levy—small, feminine, fighting her way, and reputedly very successful in a typically man's game—lit a cigarette

"This job?" said she, who gave up the proprietorship of a fish market to manage her brother a year ago as an outcome of dissatisfaction with his previous management, "is a 12 hour one now and getting bigger."

Schoolboy Notes

—By GEORGE W. GRIMM—

School track comes into its own today with a relay meet listed between Medford and Malden at the Boston Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, and Hyde Park and Trade clashing in the relay city of Boston meet at the East Armory.

The Malden-Medford meet is a tossup, for Malden has one of its strongest teams while Medford showed its strength in the 1 swamped Lynn English 66 23

The feature race today is expected to bring together Capt. Billy Main of Malden and Eddie Kozwyk of Medford in a 1000-yard race.

Bill Ritterhaus and Al Kerwin of the football team will run for Malden in the sprints. Kerwin captain-elect of Warren McGuirk's championship eleven Medford won the meet a year ago, 47 to 30, and Malden is out for revenge. One first place seems sure for Malden in the shotput which Ben Pashman won a year ago. Pashman is still hurling the shot.

Skip Sherlock's Hyde Park track team shapes up as one of the strongest that Skip has ever coached. He has his boys in good shape and will get a line on a prospective district title winner today. Hyde Park tied Memorial for the championship a year ago and is after a clear title this season.

Sherlock has a great leader in Eddie Donlan, 600-yarder, who did some fine running a year ago and is in for a sensational season if the hoped for improvement is shown

Bradford Hilliard, rated by many as the best schoolboy halfback in the State last fall is now filling a versatile role for Brockton's track team. Hilliard is a high-jumpers hurdler and runs anchor on the relay team

Hilliard will be seen tomorrow against Huntington's track team at the Huntington ave. Y gymnasium. Huntington is a strong favorite to win, with one of the greatest collections of schoolboy athletes.

The Daily Dozen

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY.

There are more candidates for the job of boxing commissioner than a husband has alibis.

Only the other day, the governor was going to call out the police to disperse what he thought was a crowd of Commonwealth. But it was just a few of the candidates.

It's getting so bad now that candidates are impersonating one another in efforts to get the job

If this business keeps up, the man who is appointed will refuse the post, thinking that he is somebody else.

As set it seems that every one of any note has been mentioned for the position but Lafayette Mulligan

And even though Mulligan doesn't exist, he is as good as many already proposed.

Just to show the governor that we can be as helpful as some of his so-called advisers, we're going to suggest a few nominations of our own

Charles Ponzi: All he needs just now is a break. Knows all promotion tricks

Vera Dumm A lady. But has no good connections. A telephone operator.

Paul Titian Polly's brother. Never doubtlessness his friends. He hasn't any.

Answer to A. B. C.: I never heard of ice fishing. I always thought they cut ice with a saw.

Northeastern showed great strength in both running events and field events in the combined varsity and freshman meet at Brown last week.

Husky Jayvee Ice Pair Show Ability

The good play of two Northeast era junior varsity icemen, Henry Purdon and Bill Pinewell, in the game with the Harvard Jayvees may win them regular berths on the Husky varsity. Purdon is a 190-pound defense man from Newton.

Peres, Westminsters Staged Wild Ice War

For many years, Mike King has been athletic director of the Pere Marquette Council of the Knights of Columbus. It was Mike King who sponsored the Pere Marquette Council's hockey team. He is mainly responsible for the success of the South Boston council's nation-wide reputation on the gridiron.

As Told to Bill Grimes
By MIKE KING

Although I cannot recall a dull moment in any game in which Capt. Frank Synnott's "Knights" engaged during the season of 1921-22, the greatest game of hockey I ever saw was the first game of the Winsor Cup series between Pere Marquette and the Westminsters

The Westminsters, who were coached by Eddie Powers, now of the Brain Cube, had, by small margins, won five games from the "Peres" before the start of the Winsor cup series. Without exception, all of these games were thrillers.

In all my experience in athletics I have never seen such bitter rivalry. With the exceptions of Frankie Downing and Irving Small, the Westminsters were all Canadians, while the Pere Marquette team was more or less of a native born aggregation in the minds of the fans.

Westminsters Won Eastern Title

When it came time to start the battle for the Winsor cup, the Westminsters had won the title of the eastern wheel of the United States Amateur Hockey League, which they annexed by defeating St. Paul.

Pere Marquette was just about fed up on upsets by Westminsters and was primed to take the measure of Eddie Powers' charges in the Winsor cup series.

Before the start of this series, it was a well known fact that neither club would be represented by a team the following season. Therefore all personal grievances must be settled. And, were they? Positively.

Shorty Veno Went After Pop Conley

Right at the start of the game the players flew at each other bringing sticks, skates and finally fists into action. About half way through the first period, Shorty Veno tried to give Pop Conley the business in front of the Knights' bench and the little Pere Marquette wing did a terrible job on his rival. Both drew major penalties, but before the officials could straighten matters out, Norman Shay spoke out of turn to Ben Healy and took the long count.

Again the police dashed on the ice to quail what looked like the makings of a riot. The Maple Leaf lead was settled in the Westminster dressing room, winding up in a complete victory of the Knight.

After a scoreless first period, Rudolph put the Westies in the lead in the second stanza. The Peres came out for the final period loaded for bear. The pace was fast and the body checking at times brutal.

In the third period Roy Goodnow beat Herbie Rheaume, the ex-Tigers' goalie, with a shot from the wing.

Dr. A. J. A. Campbell, the well-known Boston physician, than known as "AJAX," produced the winning goal.

During the remainder of the battle, the game was featured by rough play on the part of both clubs. Ay Smith was finally put out of commission with what was at first diagnosed as a broken shoulder, Wilfred Veno came up with a fractured jaw, while his brother, "Shorty," was ripped for four stitches during his mixup with "Pop" Conley. Smith and the two Venos spent the night in the Boston City Hospital, but there was not a mark on any of the "Knights."

After losing the second game, Pere Marquette came back and won the Winsor cup, which, incidentally I have yet to see, on a goal scored by Pop Conley in the third and final conflict.

Garden May Build Own Arena for Bout

New York, Jan. 21 (INS)—This summer's heavyweight championship bout between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey may be staged in a new open-air stadium just across the East river in Long Island City, it was reported today.

Madison Square Garden is said to be considering construction of an arena, seating approximately 88,000 persons, at a cost of $150,000 The Garden has been paying more than $100,000 annually for rental of the New York baseball parks for outdoor fights.

It has 15,000 individual chairs on hand, bought at a cost of nearly $30,000 for the Schmeling-Stribling fight at Cleveland last July.

BAKER DRAWS HOOD OVER JUDGES' EYES

Fortune in the person of referee Boston decisions again frowned on Billy Hood, the English middleweight, in the Arena last night.

This time Billy dropped a close decision to Leslie Baker of Watertown. The bout was much closer, however, than last week's duel with Mickey Bishop, who was given an outrageous decision over the Englishman. The decision was more or less a lucky one for the Watertown walloper.

Another lucky fellow was Leonard Jacobs, 801 Washington st., Boston. Three weeks ago Jacobs lost his home. Last night he won the motor car raffled off to the lucky ticket holder.

All the tickets were put in a big electric washing machine which was placed in mid-ring Edward F. Gallagher, president of the City Council, picked out the winning number.

In the semifinal, which followed the main bout, George Salvatore of Oak Bluffs won over Joe Grande of the West End in a six-round bout.

Jacobs held the lucky seat check, which was drawn out of a washing machine in the Arena ring, by Edward J. Gallagher, president of the Boston City Council

Long John Dixon of Boston College lost to Eddie Callahan of Nashua in a four-round go.

Dutch Leonard of Waltham outpointed Ray Twin Lopes of Watertown in a four-rounder

Joe Venuti of the North End was awarded the decision over Bert Dubbs of England

Terry Mitchell of Boston lost to Dick Madden of Roxbury in four rounds

Elmer Chase of New Bedford defeated Henry Owens of Cambridge Tommy Harper of Boston won the decision over Tony Metrano of Norwood

In gaining the championship Stebbins captured first place in the high hurdles, second in the 220-yard dash and broad jump, and a fourth in the weight throw.

Another Robin Sings But Notes Are Sour

Washington, Jan. 21 (INS)—Denny Southern's 1932 campaign is on route to the Robins' business office unsigned. When it arrived yesterday Denny thought it was a birthday present from the Flatbush management. He was celebrating his 28th birthday.

Instead he discovered an offer just half of what he received last year.

"Funny thing," said Denny, "I had just about decided to ask for a raise when the contract came."

Huntington Tank Records Broken

Two records were shattered when Capt. Gordon Connelly and Frank Holland set new marks for Huntington school swimming against Dean Academy at the Y. M. C. A. Dean was defeated, 36-26, Connelly broke the 100-yard freestyle in 57 4-5 seconds, bettering the old mark by a second. Holland set a new mark of 2 minutes 30 seconds in the 220-yard freestyle. Dean was defeated, 36-26.

CHAMP FACES WILD FRAY AT ARENA

By RINGSIDE

Nick Lutze, former Southern California star, will be knocking on the door of Old Man Opportunity when he levels at Henri DeGlane in a bout for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world at the Arena tonight under the direction of Paul Bowser.

Lutze, a smashing athlete who is blessed with a million dollars worth of color, will carry the good wishes of thousands of mat fans when he sweeps into action against the champion. Since first coming to this city, Lutze has been a darling with the wrestling crowd.

It was Lutze who introduced the reverse back fall to Boston. It was also Nick who pulled the fans to their feet as he punched the so-called rough and tough wrestlers right out of the ring.

In his race to the front, Lutze has never attempted to hand pick his opponents. He has taken on all-comers and has finally landed a match with the champion.

Lutze is faster than DeGlane. He is also able to handle his dukes much better than the Frenchman. The qualifications, say the Lutze backers, will enable Nick to leave the ring the title holder.

It will be a best two falls out of three bout, but Lutze asserts he will win in straight falls.

Deglane Realizes He Has Big Battle on Hands

DeGlane, most finished wrestler to show here in several years, is frank in admitting that Lutze is the best man he has been called upon to meet since he won the world's championship by beating Stanislaw Lewin at Montreal.

The champion is in splendid condition. Since he returned from France he has engaged in four matches. He won them all.

DeGlane believes he knows too much about the fine points of the wrestling game for Lutze. He is confident he is too strong for the youthful challenger

This bout has aroused tremendous interest, and will attract a capacity crowd to the Arena.

Browning and Strack in Another Battle

Jim Browning of Missouri will clash with Charley Strack of Oklahoma in one of the semifinals. This contest will have a 30-minute limit, and should be jammed with action.

In another semifinal Al Morelli of Boston College will take on Bob Wilkie of New York

Jan Malcalius, former Colgate star, will oppose Pat O'Hara of Florida in one of the preliims. There will be six other bouts.

N. B. A. THREATENS TO BUMP OFF SCHMELING

MAXIE MAY GO FOR RIDE AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP)—Max Schmeling's fate as undisputed king of the world's heavyweights rested in the hands of a National Boxing Association jury today.

The jury, consisting of heads of 29 State commissions, along with several in Canada and Cuba, was given the case on final instructions by Gen. John V. Clinnin of Chicago president of the N. B. A., who contended the German champion should be dethroned for failing to protect his title within the specified period of six months. The time limit expired on January 3

A poll taken by the Associated Press of several jurors indicated today that Schmeling would be deprived of his title. With few exceptions, all the jurors were solidly behind Gen. Clinnin.

So far in the Associated Press' poll, only two voting members were found to favor Schmeling. They are Edward C. Foster of Rhode Island and Thomas Donohue of Connecticut. All the others either backed General Clinnin or refused to discuss the case until they received the full details with their ballots. A majority is necessary to vacate the title.

Meanwhile, Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, headed for Chicago to claim the title for his fighter on the grounds that Schmeling "ran out" of his proposed match with Walker at Miami.

TILDEN AND NUSSLEIN IN COURT TILT

Tennis Program at Garden

Singles—3 out of 5—William T. Tilden vs. Hans Nusslein.

Doubles—2 out of 3—Bobby Sellers, Cal., and William T. Tilden vs. Hans Nusslein and Roman Najuch.

Bill Tilden will oppose two foes in his professional tennis title match at Boston Garden tonight.

Although the program lists Tilden in the feature match against Hans Nusslein, German professional champion, on the same side of the net with Bill, but working as a team, hoping to slow him up and take the fire out of his bullet-like service, will be Old Father Time.

Nusslein, seasoned Nusslein is over 21. Bill has left a gruesome record behind him in both amateur and professional ranks. Nusslein has played better Tilden once and been a regular when they have met both in action and there is no reason to doubt that the tousled German may send a few crashing off the road of fame and take away his crown.

Nusslein was taught the game by Roman Najuch, champion of Poland, who will play with him in the doubles against Tilden and Bobby Sellers, California ace.

Najuch is also billed to meet Albert Burke of Ireland, former French champion, in the opening singles match.

The feature match will be decided by three sets out of five, while the other singles match, and the doubles, will be two out of three.

This series of "Finishes of Old-Time Fights" will be featured in the sport pages of the Boston Evening American throughout the winter.

The story today is of the furious battle between Jim Jeffries and Tom Sharkey at the Coney Island Athletic Club, November 3, 1899. The fight was for the heavyweight championship, which Jeffries held and retained.

By W. F. FARNSWORTH

The crowd cheered and the men grinned as they were in the center. They exchanged the handshake which marked the beginning of the 25th and last round. Sharkey began rushing. At last he aimed out with left and right. But Jeffries warded off the leads. Jeffries was alert and seemed to be in the better condition of the pair at that point. He lured Sharkey with terrific right uppercuts and one other man than the 58 or more [illegible]

Sharkey Drops to Floor

"In the stomach, Jim," shouted Jeff's seconds and the champion took the advice. He drove [illegible] Sharkey crashing away. [illegible] the kind of battle he wanted. Once in a scuffle, following a staggering right-hander from Jeffries Sharkey fell to the floor on his haunches. He arose quickly, however, and went at his man as though nothing had happened.

Jeffries smashed at him with the left, and Sharkey in guarding the blow, dragged the glove from Jeff's left hand. The referee stepped forward to adjust the glove and Sharkey, who was all eagerness to continue the fight, made a motion as if to rush Jeffries, but the referee waved him back.

Jeffries Loses Glove Again

As soon as the glove was fixed the two big men [illegible] Sharkey swung his left reach [illegible] Jeffries [illegible] counter with a left swing. Once more the glove fell to the floor. Sharkey made another attempt to rush, and Jeffries held up his naked hand in a warning manner. When the referee was engaged in putting the glove on again the bell clanged, signalling the end of the fight.

The men went to their corners and the referee pointed in Jeffries' direction. This informed the spectators that the champion had retained his title. It required some motion of the referee for the fight was such an even thing that there was a great diversity of opinion. Billy Delaney, Jeffs' chief handler, wrapped an American flag around the champ's neck and led him away in a dressing room.

MR. BOSTON

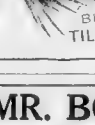
By JACK CONWAY

Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, left for New York today to negotiate terms for the 15-round world's heavyweight championship battle between the American titleholder and Max Schmeling which will be held in June.

Sharkey will leave for New York tonight, and will sit in with Buckley, Max Schmeling and Joe Jacobs when the official signing takes place on Friday morning at the office of the New York Athletic Commission.

It is likely that the contest will be staged by the New York Garden in co-operation with the Milk Fund.

Joe Jacobs says the match will draw $1,000,000 if held at the Yankee Stadium, New York. I believe Jacobs' estimate of the gate is correct. Sharkey and Schmeling drew $800,000 a year ago last June, when the bout was not nearly as hot as it is now.



Mr. Boston

Of course, we are supposed to be in the midst of a business depression but I find that when a promoter offers the match the public wants he has not any trouble selling his tickets.

The Schmeling-Sharkey contest will go a long way toward instilling new interest into the boxing game. It is one of the few naturals in sight. When the heavyweight situation is cleared up, you will find greater interest in the other boxing classes.

Eddie Mack of the Argonne Club has signed Salvatore Ruggirello, Italian heavyweight, to appear at the Arena on February 1. Ruggirello has scored recent knockouts over Walter Cobb and Stanley Poreda. He is the best right hand puncher in the heavyweight division.

Oddone Piazza, Italian middleweight title contender who has been making his home in Boston, has started training in Milwaukee for his 10-round championship contest with Gorilla Jones which will take place on next Monday night. Piazza and Jones came through the recent elimination tournament undefeated.

Tootz Mondi, new matchmaker of wrestling at the Boston Garden, has taken a page from the book of Paul Bowser and in future will have feature contests decided by best two falls out of three. In the past, most of the main bouts at the Garden have been decided by one fall.

For his opening show on next Wednesday night, Tootz will have Strangler Lewis in with Pat O'Shocker, Hans Steinke opposed by George Manish and Dirk Shikat in action with Mairos Kirilenko.

Mondi used to be quite a wrestler himself, and should know how to pair the big fellows so as to get the most action. Remember the furious tussles between Tootz and the late Stanley Stasiak at the Arena?

AA LEAGUE HEAD UP IN THE AIR

Chicago, Jan. 21 (AP)—American Association clubs may produce a new kind of baseball holdout next season—the player who refuses to fly.

As Thomas Jefferson Hickey, president of the class AA loop studied the proposal to ship the clubs from park to park by air today, he admitted some difficulty would be encountered with those players who think flying is about as safe as a game ball to Babe Ruth.

"No doubt, we will have some aerial holdouts for a time if we go through with our plan to use planes," President Hickey said, "but I don't think we will be troubled very long. When the Columbus team flew last summer, two of the players refused to fly.

"They were sent on by train, but give the next time with the rest of the boys and liked it. Of course, we can't compel any player to fly. All we can do in such cases is to do like we did at Columbus—let them take a train."

Twin Ice Bill at Garden Tomorrow

A fine ice double-header is carded at the Garden tomorrow night, when the Boston Bruins will play the United States Olympic team, and the Boston Hockey Club engages the Polish Olympic team.

Both the Bruin-American Olympic and the Boston Hockey-Polish Olympic games will be played under Olympic hockey rules.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

One of the best attractions of the season will be the double header, in which the Bruins tackle the United States Olympic Club and the Boston Hockey Club meets the Poland Olympic team tomorrow night at the Garden.

The two games at the Garden will offer the fans an opportunity to see two of the four teams which will battle for the amateur championship of the world next month at Lake Placid.

"Happy" Harnott, who was recently signed by the Bruins, will make his debut with the Bostons against the United States Olympic team. Harnott has been starring with the Montreal A. A. A. this season, but he will be assigned to the Cubs after tomorrow night.

Harry Oliver is still very much of a cripple despite the daily treatments he is receiving from Win Green. Oliver's leg is very weak and it is doubtful if he will be ready to resume action with the Cubs for a week or ten days.

Dr. Martin Crowley put two stitches in Dit Clapper's head after the game at Hastings. The doctor failed to remove his noble brow from the path of one of Eddie Shore's shots during the B's-Wks game.

Mickie Ion, who was barred for life by the National Hockey League for the part he was alleged to have played in the Bruins-Canadiens playoff series last spring, is refereeing in the California Hockey League, which is affiliated with the N. H. L.

Some referee is going to get a cuss bollocking on the head and slap a fine on "Tip" Radley, New Haven, for delaying the game by skating around the rink after he has drawn a penalty.

Although handicapped by a leg injury, Eddie Burke is showing up well with the Bruins. He has scored three goals and two of them were away from home, which is a good sign that he is not a "homer."

Eddie Powers is responsible for the improvement in Myles Lane. The Cub manager changed the former Dartmouth's star's style of skating and now Lane is seldom off his balance.

Jimmie Creighton will bolster up the Philadelphia attack. The former Cub is a colorful, dashing player and working with such clever wings as Art Coulter and Buckies, he will be a valuable acquisition to Herbie Gardiner's club.

Bert McInenley and Tommie Fitzmore have become important cogs in the New York machine. They were both dissatisfied financially in Detroit and are elated over their new surroundings, realizing that if they made good, Bill Dwyer will see that they are taken care of when the time comes to sign next year's contracts.

N. L. PILOTS LIKE CARDS TO REPEAT

By JOE CASHMAN

Credit it to prohibition, unemployment, the talkies, the Democrats, the Republicans or what you will, baseball managers are becoming truthful.

Gone are days when the start of every season would hear each of the sixteen big league managers predicting that his club would certainly be a pennant contender.

In these troublous times the managers don't try to delude themselves or anybody else. If one thinks that a rival will win the flag, he says so. If another thinks he has a second division club, he admits the fact.

Take Bill McKechnie, Tribal chief, for example.

McKechnie Likes Chances of Cards

We interrupted him in the midst of his contract conference with Judge Fuchs today to inquire whether he believed that the world champion St. Louis Cardinals could be prevented from winning their third straight National League pennant this coming season.

"I doubt it very much," he shot back, "It's natural to string along with a winner until he is beaten. But that's not my only reason for picking the Cards to repeat. They won last season without extending themselves to the limit and they appear to have strengthened more than any of their first division rivals in '31.

"Another thing, if some of the stars should flop, they could immediately dig up replacements on their farms. If any other club should suffer such a misfortune, and it is possible, it would collapse. Consequently, I can't imagine the Streetmen being beaten."

Outside of Manager John McGraw whose New York Giants finished second in the Cards last season, the rest of the National League [illegible] are inclined to agree with McKechnie.

A's Not Unanimous Favorites in A. L.

The American League managers [illegible] is unanimous in their [illegible] that the Philadelphia Athletics are going to win their fourth [illegible] League pennant, because of the collapse of the champions against the Cards in the past World's Series and parity [illegible] no team in the circuit has [illegible] finished in front four times running. But now if them agree that the Yankees and possibly the Senators are the only clubs the Mackmen have to fear.

McKechnie expects the Braves to show much improvement this season and Manager John Collins is confident that his Red Sox will climb higher in the American League standing. Neither will say any more.

Offhand, weather forecasters are no more conservative in their prognostications than modern big league managers.

MORE PEOPLE BECOMING OWNERS OF STOCK

By B. C. FORBES

MORE, NOT FEWER, Americans are becoming owners of stocks. This fact will create widespread astonishment. Popular assumption has been that holders of stocks were being forced all over the country to part with them.

U. S. Steel Corporation sent dividend checks last month to 174,507 stockholders, a new maximum and 7719 more than a the close of the previous quarter.

Radio Corporation of America closed the year with 108,551 stockholders. Never before had the total approached the hundred-thousand mark. At the end of June its total was under 75,000, while in April, 1928, it had only 11,976.

United Corporation, Morgan-sponsored public utility, reports 87,025 stockholders now, compared with 68,404 at the end of 1930.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey has doubled its list of stockholders in five years. It now has 87,196.

Notwithstanding unfortunate events in the banking world during recent times, fifteen New York City institutions ended the year with 328,874 stockholders, a gain of 9 per cent for the year. The same banks had only 19,401 in 1920, the increase since then having been 1596 per cent.

Diffusion of Wealth Indicated

We hear much about concentration of wealth. These figures suggest diffusion of wealth. How happy a development would it be for America were it revealed, after recovery gets well under way, that many thousands of individuals and families of modest means acquired possession of meritorious stocks at unprecedentedly low prices.

Short Selling Continues

Apparently a lot of folks haven't succumbed to the abject pessimism and inexplicable blindness which have afflicted the big people in Wall Street. Short selling goes merrily on in the financial world, notwithstanding that stocks have declined an average of some 80 per cent from their boom peaks

Fortunes Waiting to Be Made

President James R. Bancroft, of the American Institute of Finance, aptly points out

"When General Motors was 91 it was a great company, with a future of limitless expansion. But, will we buy the same stock at 20? Oh, No! At 90, great company. At 20, pooh!

"Radio at 114 was a grand long term investment! Great possibilities! Television! The Lord only knew what miracles it would next bring forth. At 5 to 8 you scarcely hear its name mentioned. The same stock. The same company. The same long pull prospects—whatever they were.

"The Public Utilities were the greatest possible long pull investment when they were selling at 30-50 times their earnings. No depression could stop them. Now that they are selling for only 10 times their earnings, and have shown in great measure the stability of earning power practiced, we refuse to purchase them. Electric Bond and Share at 183 was the sure road to wealth. At plain 9 it can only bring loss.

"There will be more fortunes built in the next few years than at any time in the life of the present generation."

Lower Governmental Expenses

President Percy H. Johnston, of the Chemical Bank & Trust Company, New York, yesterday told its stockholders (they total 12,444, a new high record):

"What is needed most of all is courage and confidence—courage in our undertakings and confidence in our ability to meet the problems of today and any that might arise in the future . . . Business definitely is prepared instead to arrest the force of deflation. Probably the most important contributing factor to the return of prosperity is the necessity for lowering the operating costs of our nation, states and cities."

The selection of General Dawes and Governor Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve board to head the two-billion-dollar reconstruction corporation is applauded by the financial world. Both have the knack of doing difficult things and doing them without shilly-shallying.

Notes and Gossip About People You Know

TOO MANY COOKS

A meeting of a committee of the Massachusetts Bar Association called for the purpose of recommending a candidate for appointment to fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court failed to get anywhere, because, it is said there developed so many candidates among the committee members themselves.

SPOILS CHANCES

The decision of the industrial accident board to discharge any girl who gets married from now on is the cause of a special grievance in that department. "Why wait for leap year before putting su h an order into effect?" is the question that is being asked

PLEADS CHANGE

Rep. Lewis A. Sullivan of Boston, in pleading for a change in the legislative committee hearings before the Rules Committee, contended that legislators, in addition to committee members, should have the privilege of asking questions of witnesses and petitioners. Rep. George P. Anderson said he would like to get the names of solons particularly of the Democratic party, who are too timid to ask questions under the present procedure

BEARDON LAUDED

Because of his efforts in behalf of the poor of Boston at Christmas, Cornelius A. Reardon, secretary to Mayor Curley, today received a vote of thanks from the members of Michael J. Perkins Post, American Legion, of that district. Commander Edward C. Carroll of the organization, in a communication to Mr. Reardon, conveying the expression of appreciation of the members, stated that funds were insufficient to care for all who applied for Christmas dinners and that were it not for him many would have gone hungry at that time.

UNEMPLOYED BALE

"Gene" Canney, of the contract office, city public works department, is a member of the committee arranging for the penny sale and "Bingo" party of the Non-parell A. A. of Jamaica Plain, in aid of the unemployed of the city

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Frank "Chesty" Romero, of the streetlaying-out department, plans to organize a basketball league among the girls employed in City Hall

LOWEST PRICED CAR IS READY

Toledo, O., Jan 21—L. A. Miller president of the Willys Overland Co., today announced the lowest-priced line of automobiles ever produced in America, being far lower in price than any other sizes and style and lower than even any standard line of four-cylinder cars on the market. A reduction of $100 in the list prices of all new 1932 silver anniversary Willys Overland sixes and eights, and Willys Knight sixes and eights was announced.

"This great reduction in our prices," said Mr. Miller, "squarely meets the present recognized economic situation. It will increase dealer profits through stimulating volume, make possible an increase in employment and increase the need to purchase new cars on a return by stimulating the dormant retail buying power which is known to exist. We believe many additional thousands of potential buyers will promptly take advantage of prices that are materially lower than at any time in American history.

"The new low prices of the Willys-Overland six start at $415, and the full size five-passenger four-door sedan is only $595, making this the lowest priced line of standard automobiles in America without exception."

Rubber Is Mixed

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Rubber futures today were irregular, March, 4.42; May, 4.52; July, 4.66.

STATE ST.

Hears:

That the conservative element accumulated a good line of stocks on the setback from last Friday. They do not expect a sharp bulge, which not only would be unwelcome but would impair the technical position to a marked degree. Abnormal strength at this time might also encourage aggressive operations by bears. Positions taken on the setback should be maintained until the market encounters a selling test. This should develop around 90 on the Dow-Jones industrial index.

"Alcohol"

Those who enthuse over the outlook for U. S. Industrial Alcohol are considering the short position of the shares as well as the better price situation. After establishing a low point above 20 the price of the stock snapped back about 20 points. Then a normal correction took place which carried the price down under 30. Here a test of the up" position resulted in a bull sign and the price again rose above 38. Then a trading range of about 7 points made it difficult to arrive at definite conclusion. Now, however, the stock has broken out of this range on the upside and it seems the down trend has definitely been broken

More important, perhaps, than the breaking of the down trend is the establishing of definite bottoms. These lend themselves to the chartists' long-term bull line particularly well. For the present a move to the 34-37 area will be acceptable

Union Carbide

The future of chemical companies in an age when they might be said to dictate the mode, discussed here a few weeks back, has made it necessary to keep a close watch on the group as a whole One Boston broker suggests the addition of Union Carbide to the long term portfolio. This concern is an important factor in the manufacture of ferro alloys for electric furnaces. These alloys are of increasing importance to the automobile industry. It also produces synthetic organic chemicals, welding gases and is, of course, one of the dominating factors in the carbon industry

Earnings for the full year 1931 probably will not cover the present dividend of $2.60 . If they approximate $2, as expected, it is likely the new rate will be $2 While this may seem high on the earnings basis shown, many feel the company can afford to be liberal with net quick assets of $9 and fixed assets of $21 per share

Boardroom Briefs

Inspired by tape action it looks as though the play of a leading operator in Chesapeake & Ohio is taking place as per advices . . . Allied Chemical appeared to be under accumulation between 70 and 72 This is still rumored to be pet of the Boston "bear" clique operating in Florida . . . New Haven acts very well and should be held

The State Street traders who have had good success in Mass . e are said to be taking up calls offered 3 or 4 points above the market . . . Move in Alaska Juneau is getting too much publicity for those insiders who think now is getting out time

Despite the various delays, astute rail observers do not doubt for one moment that a reduction to about 10 per cent will be affected.

CHAMBER HEAD OFFERS VIEWS ON TAXATION

By FRANK H. MELOON

President Frederick S. Snyder of the Boston Chamber of Commerce tells us:

"The Chamber is naturally much concerned with reference to the matter of taxation. It becomes are so sharply reduced everywhere that of course taxation becomes a double burden We would like to prevent any line of thought in any direction, because the taxpayer is much less able to afford the strain than heretofore.

"The primary remedy is, of course, every obvious, for the government not to tax more but to spend less. There is naturally a conflict between necessary relating to immediate expenditures. Thrift is the primary cure for our troubles, except those incident to unemployment. In that field, employment, and therefore the necessary expenditure, is the only alternative to the dole.

"Therefore it is logical to say that there should be thrift in every direction except that type of expenditure necessary to relieve distressful unemployment, and so far as possible the work to be performed for such relief ought to be that which will provide the greatest amount of labor expenditure in the dollar, with the inclusion of the smallest amount of machine work, unless such machine work is necessary adjustment of economical construction work, and it is to be hoped hand labor consumes the major part of the expenditure.

• • •

"I enlarge upon this, for so far as I have observed, this particular phase of the conflict of two principles, each in themselves sound, has not been discussed in the public prints."

List of American plants Industries with branches in Canada is growing. Five have been added since the first of the year. Hudson Motor Car Co. of Michigan has formed a subsidiary, the Hudson-Essex of Canada, Ltd., and will start manufacturing Hudson-Essex cars at Ojibway, Windsor. Ontario, soon. Walter Motor Truck Co. of Long Island City, N. Y., has formed a Canadian subsidiary, the Walter Motor Trucks of Canada Ltd. Space has been secured in Toronto and production will be started immediately.

Other American companies locating in Canada are: Arrow-Hart & Hegeman Electric Co. of Hartford Conn., establishing a branch in Toronto; Kellogg Manufacturing Company, makers of air compressors, paint-spraying equipment, etc which will open in Toronto; and the Eureka Refining Corporation which will establish a refinery with capacity of 5000 barrels of oil daily at Amherstburg, Ontario.

It is declared in usually well-informed circles St. circles that the late advance in public utility securities, especially bonds and preferred stocks, is expected to result in early resumption of operations for refunding and new financing by many companies. Large public issues are being studied by bankers, it is declared, some say, predicting the appearance of some of the financing by early February

Business Machines Profits Set Peak

New York, Jan. 21—International Business Machines Corp. closed another year of record profits in 1931. Three record quarters through Sept. 30 brought nine months' net income to $5,829,125, equivalent to $8.46 a share on 668,802 common shares. Full year's return will increase net close to $7,850,000 or $11.50 a share. This compares with net income of $7,357,817 in 1930, equal to $11.53 a share on 637,954 shares

Order for Voting Machines Is Given

Jamestown, N. Y., Jan 21—R. G. Dun's reports St. circles that the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation, states that the corporation has today awarded by Secretary Reamish of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania an order for 800 voting machines, for Allegheny County, delivery to be made on or before April 1, 1932. This will completely equip Philadelphia with voting machines

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

SHORT-COVERING has undoubtly played a leading role in price betterment, since nothing stirringly cheerful has developed in late news. The dullness in itself is the most optimistic sign for the market, leading to the interpretation by some speculative factions that the late somewhat cheerless news has been unable to impress on us another period of heavy liquidation

Car Loadings for Week Up 13.7 P. C.

Freight car loadings for the week ended Jan. 9, showed an increase of 69,179, or 13.7 per cent over the preceding seven days, when the movement was affected by the New Year holiday. The gain was about in line with estimates in the financial district. The total of 572,504 cars was 140,824, or 19.7 per cent, below the same week of last year and 230,857 cars, or 28.6 per cent, under the corresponding week of 1930

Speculative Interest in Sugar Larger

There are indications of a moderate increase in speculative interest in sugar. This commodity was a leader on the upside several years ago and with the current price of futures unusually low there are some who hope for a buying movement which could produce more than a moderate rise. It is said that some professionals in sugar futures have been inclined to purchase the January-June and December options Improvement in futures would help the sugar stocks

Now an American Tobacco "Extra"?

Record earnings for 1931 are expected to be reported by American Tobacco. As a result, there is quite general in conservative quarters that the directors are likely to vote an extra dividend at the next meeting of the board next Wednesday. Such action could result in considerable covering as it is believed that there is quite a good-sized short interest in the stock which has materially depressed on the theory that reduced consumption of cigarettes and products of increased taxes will be unfavorable factors later on

General Asphalt Royal Dutch Suit

Hearings on the appeal to the House of Lords from the decisions of the lower court favoring the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Co., Ltd., (Royal Dutch Shell) in the libel suit brought by General Asphalt Co. are scheduled to start in London at 10 a. m., New York time today. General Asphalt won the suit in the London High Court, while the British Court of Appeals unanimously reversed the decision. The action involves certain alleged royalty rights from the Vigas concession in Venezuela.

General Motors Year-End Adjustments

Relief exists in financial circles that normal year-end adjustments of the General Motors Corporation may have less of an effect on fourth quarter earnings and on the report for 1931 than in former years. It is pointed out that the item of inventories has been under continual adjustment since early in the year with the result that no large write-off will be necessary Comparison of the 1931 balance sheet with a year ago, however, is expected to disclose some interesting changes, especially in plant and equipment account after allowance is made for the disposal of the National Plate Glass Company

Mail Order Prices Lower

Catalogues now being distributed by the mail order houses in general are featuring drastic reductions compared with those a year ago and indicate a sharp increase in sales in higher dollar totals, profit margins are bound to be generally less than heretofore as a natural consequence. Sears Roebuck's new catalogue showed reductions in prices ranging from 11 to 47 per cent, and of Montgomery Ward from 16 to 38 per cent

Groups still operating in some of the less prominent stocks are depending entirely for their success on the efforts of the Case pool

Pennsy. Dividend Action Week Off

Pennsylvania railroad directors are scheduled to meet for dividend action on Wednesday, the decline in revenue last year and the slump in per share earnings, further reduction in the payment would occasion little surprise The stock pays $2 and is selling around that basis of 11 per cent. Current forecasts are in the effect that earnings for 1931 were approximately $3 a share below dividend requirements

Baltimore & Ohio Earnings Estimated

Reliable estimates state Baltimore & Ohio earned 60 cents a share on the common stock in 1931, compared with $7.44 in 1930

INSURANCE

"Life Insurance Day" Is Here
Committee Headed by A. G. Borden
Plans for Financial Independence
Safest Way of Creating an Estate

By Frank F. Loomis

Today has been proclaimed Life Insurance Day throughout the United States and Canada in connection with National Thrift Week which commenced with Benjamin Franklin's birthday, Jan. 17

National Life Insurance Day represents an earnest effort to present a real message of significance for the favorable contribution to the public. It serves to emphasize the effective and beneficent part that Life Insurance has played in the economic life of the nation. With respect to the financial stability of family and business, as well as the creation and maintenance of estates through systematic thrift and sound investment, the life insurance service is unexcelled

For many years Life Insurance has never had a better opportunity than it has today to present to the citizens of the United States the message of hope—as a constructive influence for the well-being of people in this country and the Dominion of Canada

"Give more thought to the life insurance you now own," is the slogan adopted by the National Life Insurance Day Committee, and "free fear-frozen assets" is the theme adopted for its activities.

"Free fear-frozen assets" is a very appropriate theme in times like the present when fear of the future has been prompting nationwide hoarding of cash in defiance of legitimate economic endeavor Life insurance is designed to eliminate such fear of the future and at the present time life insurance can therefore serve a double purpose. It can relieve fear, worry over the future, it can greatly reduce hoarding, and consequently bring money back into circulation

The National Life Insurance Day Committee, appeals to the 20 of the familiar figures in life insurance in this country and Canada, is headed by Albert Wilson Borden, vice-president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Mr. Borden says:

"This false fear for the financial future has resulted in millions of productive dollars being withdrawn from normal channels of commerce, agriculture and industry with the result that trade is stifled through lack of nourishment.

"If this fear for the future could be banished with universal satisfaction, a large portion of our surplus savings would be released immediately for productive purchases. Fear for the future has always been the shrill cry of financial panic which once set up stampedes many thoughtless followers. There has been plenty of experience in the past to prove the truth of this assertion. Approximately every seven years since 1857 we have seen this same foolish stampede.

"Through all these years, life insurance as an institution has looked upon this scene of commercial and financial debacle realizing that following it would come the usual period of hoarding, followed by savings forestalls the normal return to economic balance. Life insurance companies have weathered successfully not only the times of depression which this nation has experienced from time to time, but also the more serious periods of wars and epidemics."

Only the firmly rooted financial stability and conservative management of our life insurance companies have made such a record of security possible for policyholders Calvin Coolidge finally said "Life insurance is as safe as any financial institution can be."

Life insurance is an institution admirably equipped to assure confidence in the future, and confidence alone through which life insurance permits productive investments to be made now while services and commodities are at low prices. The success which the life insurance companies, associations and individuals have in getting this message over to the public with reference to creating financial independence is largely the speed with which they can thaw out these "fear-frozen assets" and get the channels of business flowing with their customary vigor

Special days during this week have been given over to the consideration of various phases of financial independence such as the family budget, the making of a will, home ownership, and safe forms of investments.

A special appeal has been made to life underwriters in this country and Canada to present to their clients and prospects the fact that by making adequate life insurance provisions for themselves and family a man need have no fear for the financial future for himself and those he has protected by life insurance will be enabled to find a safe automatic means of creating an estate If you prepare for the future of yourself and family through life insurance a much smaller sum need be set aside for the future, thereby releasing more of a man's current funds for current spending.

STOCK PRICES MOSTLY LOWER IN BOSTON

Stock prices were mostly lower in today's transactions on the Boston Stock Exchange with changes limited to a narrow range Utilities were steady to firm with textile shares showing a rallying tendency.

American Telephone was slightly higher at 121¼ and Edison Electric prices unchanged from its previous closing level. Public Service Corp. of New Jersey declined a minor fraction to 22

American Woolen preferred added a minor fraction to its initial advance of Wednesday. Amoskeag advanced slightly at 3¼. Swift & Co. was weak, dropping over 3 points to 21. Pennsylvania lowered ¼ to 22¼, while Del Haven was sold at its previous closing price Merganthaler sold a point lower at 52 an l Anaconda gained a minor fraction on

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Whitney & Fiscl—Directors of U. S. Steel common meet next Tuesday for dividend action, and Bethlehem Steel meets a few days later. Other dividend meetings together with incoming corporation reports over the next few weeks, will only tend to add to the uncertainty of the present situation. The market at the present time is a trading one in which rallies should be taken advantage of as well as reactions.

Shields & Co.—With no aggressive leadership on either side and little possibility of definite news over the next few days continuation of a very narrow trading market is to be looked for. The idea is in a position to move fairly rapidly in either direction when important influence makes an appearance with rallies likely to be limited by increasing nervousness.

Hornblower & Weeks—We would maintain faith in the competitive position of the railroads, believing that before the current upswing is completed the market will at least duplicate and perhaps better its high level of last week

Prices Rising for Exchange Seats

New York, Jan. 21 (AP) There has been a moderate upward trend in the past few weeks in the prices of memberships in the leading commodity exchanges. This is attributed to the slight improvement in the markets and the promise of a more active speculative interest

SPECTATOR

Says:

Recent rumors to the effect that sponsors for the advance had abandoned their positions were quickly dispelled by the abrupt turnabout which developed Wednesday and, barring unforeseen developments, the market seems all set for a new onslaught on the former resistance levels on the upside.

Technical Outlook

From a technical point of view, the immediate outlook is distinctly bullish For when the stock list failed to react more than one-half of the distance attained in the January 5th to 14th rise, it gave a clear-cut indication that the rally impulse is not yet to be near term view of prices.

For, if the process of readjustment, as concerns individual stocks, can continue to have as little influence on the general price structure as in the foregoing instance, then much in the way of obstacles to further recovery has been removed.

Resistance Points

Something in the way of a test may be witnessed as the highs of January 14 are approached. The market, as measured by the Dow-Jones industrial averages, now stands at 83.57, as compared with a closing high a week ago at 85.88. Should this resistance point be successfully negotiated today, then the next point of attack at 84, constituting the 50 per cent recovery level, will determine just how powerful the bull cause is situated.

Traders should still keep one ear cocked to developments as they may emerge at the Chicago wheat conference. While events as they have thus far shaped up and no pressure may appear likely to the problem under discussion, still something might take place which could throw all market calculations into disorder. Quiet conservatism should still be the watchword

REFRIGERATOR SALES ARE UP

New York, Jan 21—The electrical industry in the United States served 26,643,249 wired homes, and in 1931 delivered just enough to them in excess of $613,052,000 from the sale of appliances, according to a market survey just released by Electrical Merchandising

Substantial gain was shown last year by electric refrigerators and electric clocks. A preliminary estimate places the sales of refrigerators at 800,000, representing a retail valuation of $258,000,00. In both volume and retail income the 1931 figures exceed both 1930 and 1929

The American family in 1931 paid $14,332,470 for 686,648 vacuum cleaners, and purchased 72,000 electric cookers at 600,000 less for $480,600 Fans of the ceiling, desk and bracket and household ventilating types sold to the number of 707,303 for a total retail expenditure of $10,170,532.

Electric clocks are the important sales item in 1931. 5,000,000 cases and 10,000,000 battery cells for flashlights were sold for $3,250,000 and $8,800,00 respectively. Household flood machines were sold to the number of 20,000, for which their purchasers paid retail prices aggregating $1,650,000. A total of 109,080 heaters and radiators were sold for $160,576. Incandescent lamp sales gains over 1930 volume and income

PRICE CHANGES ARE NARROW IN WALL ST.

New York, Jan. 21.—Price changes were narrow in today's trading on the New York Stock Exchange today. The narrower conditions held to stay in light volume. Gains of one to two points appeared in the second period for a number of pivotal favorites.

New York tractions met with good buying demand and scored moderate advances.

N. Y. TRACTIONS UP

Maximum gains of more than a point to more than two points were quickly erased by Brooklyn-Manhattan and Interboro Rapid Transit. U. S. Steel changed hands mostly on various fractions of small fractions from yesterday's close.

Gains of a point or more showed for International Business Machines, Lambert, General Mills, J. I. Case, American Tobacco "B," Johnson and American Woolen preferred. Baldwin Locomotive and Pere Marquette advanced a couple of points.

Fresh selling of General Electric temporarily checked the advance in today's early trading.

The market pointed upward at the outset with several issues registering temporary gains of one-half to one point, and Auburn gaining 2¾ but this was largely lost by the end of the first half hour.

General Electric sagged nearly a point, which pulled Westinghouse down fractionally. American Telephone also eased, and Southern Pacific lost a fraction. U. S. Steel sold up fractionally, then sagged. Early gains of a point or so had appeared in American Water Works, Pullman and the New Yorks.

NEWS REASSURING

Washington news that the conference committee of the two branches of Congress had agreed on the final form to the reconstruction finance corp. bill should take was interpreted favorably by Wall St. Bankers expressed hope that the proposed corporation would be in operation by Feb. 1.

Successful conclusion of New York city financing negotiations was also reassuring to business leaders who have contended the question of municipal finances is one of the important problems of the day. Bankers saw in the successful New York negotiation a development that might be a precedent for more than purely local benefit.

Postponement of the Lausanne conference was not unexpected. A few international bankers had expected this proposed meeting to develop anything very definite by way of settling Europe's financial dilemma.

The approaching Geneva conference, although it has been called to discuss disarmament, is expected to some hoek executives to be of far greater importance.

Lumber shipments, amounting for yesterday to 319,393,000, were regarded as of nominal proportions. A leading industry stated that the Federal Reserve Bank here could return $700,000,000 more of Europe's gold without greatly endangering American efforts at credit expansion.

A further advance of ¼ of a cent in the English pound sterling to $3.46 for cables was posted today.

CURB MARKET REMAINS DULL

New York, Jan. 21—The curb market again reflected the absence of speculative interest, and a continuance of the same listless dealings has been evidenced most of this week was noted in today's session.

Utilities, if anything, were inclined to ease off somewhat with fractional declines registered in Electric Bond & Share, Middle West Utilities, American Gas & Power warrants, and United Light & Power, American Light & Traction, one of the few issues to gain, performers of late, scored a gain of ¼ point at 22¾.

Cities Service churned around its previous closing level holding unchanged at 6¼ most of the time. Oils were irregular, with the standard of Indiana up ⅛ at 16¾. Humble in its first sale of the week showed a loss of 1¼ points.

Specialties were extremely dull, with Aluminum the only active issue to change hands for the greater part of the forenoon, and then showin ga loss of ⅛ at 87.

Extra Dividend on Tobacco Talked Of

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—In speculative circles there is talk of possible declaration of an extra dividend on American Tobacco at next week's meeting of the board. It is based on reports that the company, like the Reynolds and Liggett & Myers companies which have already reported, will show a favorable 1931 statement.

Is This for Too Good Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for coughs or colds that hang on, for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, mors and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

Rival Funsters for New Air Series

By N. F. T.

After February 1, four famous funny men of the air will enter into their work under the same sponsorship, jurisdiction, Colonel Stoopngle, with his buffooning pal Bud, have just signed with the present sponsor of those silly Sisters of The Skillet. Which means five nights a week on CBS and NBC chain networks for the backers.

• • •

Eddie and Ralph (Sisters of the Skillet) will continue clowning through NBC "milker" at 8:45 p. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Monday and Wednesday nights bring the Colonel and Bud at the same hour, periods. Abundant fan mail resulted following the "Cortes Conquers, but Loses" sketch of last Tuesday. Next week brings "Robert E. Lee's Great Decision," with which is included a background of Civil War music.

• • •

LIKELY TO LAST

This is a full year contract arrangement. Here's one schedule looking as though it will be maintained for listener-enjoyment without being juggled around as so many good air features have been in the past.

• • •

Echoes reverberating since the Democratic victory dinner held in Washington recently, bring to mind that radio rahjahs did not re-arrange any commercial program doings to adequately take in all of that rally. One network took some of the oratorical offerings, while another found no time at all for it.

• • •

When the campaign really gets under way, Mr. Raskob will unwrap the wad to pay and pay and pay—for radio chatter.

• • •

Mabel Albertson, versatile soloist heard often hereabouts, will be featured tomorrow afternoon during a radio adaptation of "A Woman Commands," newest Pola Negri film production. Miss Albertson, whose interpretations of Helen Morgan and Ruth Etting have brought her prestige in Boston studios, will play and sing in the role of "Mabel Jones" as portrayed by Pola Negri on the screen. John McNamara is being cast in the supporting group of telephone players. The matinee presentation goes on the air (WBZ) at 4 o'clock.

LOCAL LATHES

Could that have been Peg La Centra' picture in print yesterday morning? . . . Mor wrestling (WNAC) tonight at 10 o'clock when Deglane tangles tornos with Nick Lutze . . . John (Diction Award Winner) Brodhook visited old pals at WBZ for two days last week, introducing his beauteous wife, the former Josephine Renwick of NBC network dramatic renown . . . Hub radio writers on the press enjoyed Crosley-Pishon Post's Legion luncheon today, guests of Chambers, Wiswell and Marks, broadcast builders . . . The Gossipers, leading a group of popular local air favorites, are appearing in person at St. Peter's Hall in Cambridge tomorrow night . . . Nanny Weeks is the latest addition acting as guest conductor for Metropolitan Theater audiences, beginning tomorrow. He will of course, broadcast considerably during the weeks'' stay.

PERSONALITIES IN THE NEWS

A Chillicothe, O., chap named Eugene Cain reports he sent 1700 fan letters during 1931. To the Boswell girls he wrote 30 times, Kate Smith 25, and seven in a month to Marion Harris.

Another percentage thought is also omitted. What's the ratio of dates to compliments for artists?

Vaughn De Leath will do a commencement program Jan. 30 when she sings an old-fashioned tune in an old-time way for an old-fashioned mike.

And to lend realism an engineer will stand by supplying squeaks and howls as a contrast to radio's development.

UNION FREEMENDOUS devel-opment—of the sponsor, the crooner and four or five thousand other things that have helped hasten demise of the list'r.

SCANDAL about you well known local b'casters will be talked about soon . . . When the accompaniment for Bing Crosby goes awry, Carl Fenton, the leader, stops the boys and with his violin accompanies the singer . . . When Tzecha Seidel broke a string on his violin before a b'cast last wk. the Street Singer offered the artist his accordion . . . Art Jarrett is changing his style.

LEE McCOLLUM, WBZ "Sidewalks of Life" b'caster, is the original discoverer of Clark Cable. McCollum gave him the lead in "What Price Glory" for his west coast tour . . . He is seriously forming a New England network of WEEI, WCSH, WTAG, WJAR and WTIC. Yankee network please note . . . Garden Party, NBC favorite last yr., starts anew Jan. 31 with Ohio Schips, Chicago Opera star, as first guest artist.

VINCENT LOPEZ was to have been the orchman for the cigaret series next Sunday, but his Met Theater job will hold up his appearance for another wk. Another fan letter about the cigaret p'gram is Ben Bernie. Which should prove a surprise because Ben and Walt Winchell, that p'gram's an'ncer, have been squabbling like the chickens on the air . . . NBC will air 28 p'grams this yr. in honor of the George Washington Bicentennial . . . James Melton will move into the N. Y. Paramount Theater soon, and E. Crosby will move out. So the latter will probably head this way . . . Guy Lombardo is also scheduled for a Boston theater appearance, but not for a few months. Radio's invasion of the theater isn't pleasing vaudevillians one bit.

A friend spoke highly of Dr. Walsh and took me to his office. I am so pleased with the result of Dr. Walsh's treatment of my case that I gladly consent to the publication of this statement in the hope who suffer as I did may know where to go for help." State Aid for Cities

A Dangerous Precedent

Governor Ely seems disposed to help them.

The plan is for the state to place its enormous resources and credit behind them. The state would guarantee the short-time notes and other loans they seek in anticipation of tax collections.

Our purpose is to aid one another, through the state.

We do not want to see, the financial reputation of our ancient Bay State cities questioned.

Nor do we want innocent school teachers, firemen, policemen and other city employes go without pay because of conditions which they did not create and over which they have had no control.

But in practise the thing is dangerous and should be surrounded with every safeguard.

It is true that extraordinary demands for relief of its unfortunate citizens have been made upon the cities and towns in these unusual times.

But it is equally true that these cities and towns are the essence of our democratic government, that they should stand upon their own feet, manage their financial affairs with honesty and conduct themselves without the taint of scandal or corruption.

In some of these places there is much more going on than the buying of candy, china dolls and expensive luncheons for the city fathers, unpleasantly revealed in Cambridge.

There is mismanagement of funds, favoritism in contracts and other vicious practises which have all the earmarks of downright criminality.

These places ought to clean house first and come to the state with clean hands.

Every dollar wasted by them either in extravagance or corruption has meant an extra dollar saddled upon the taxpayers.

Once they get into the habit of begging the state for financial backing the state will get into the habit of reaching out and taking control over them.

The pure and fine democratic government of our Bay State cities and towns, which Lord Bryce so fulsomely praised, will then become nothing more or less than a memory.

Billions in Beer

If the manufacture and sale of beer were permitted tomorrow, a billion dollars of idle capital would be put to work at once.

That estimate has been commonly made and commonly accepted.

Yet Mr. Joseph E. Doherty of Boston advises us that the estimate is altogether too small.

He is experienced in such matters. And on the basis of his experience he estimates that the manufacture and sale of beer would result in the expenditure of four billions of dollars in a very short time.

Armies of men would be put to work, not only in the brewing trade but in the numerous trades and industries collateral and necessary to it. The national government would derive hundreds of millions of dollars annually in new property and excise taxes.

It is quite evident, therefore, that a tremendous business expansion would result while the country would at the same time relieve itself of the evils of a prohibition which does not produce temperance but which does produce intemperance and outlawry.

Look to the South!

Dean Everett W. Lord of Boston University, an old seafaring man who sailed before the mast, told the officers and cadets of the Massachusetts Nautical Schoolship Nantucket, that the destiny of the United States points toward South America.

What Dean Lord had in mind, no doubt, was that we should be attempting to erect satisfactory trade, commercial and diplomatic relationship with South America instead of expending all our energy toward Europe.

New England business men ought to realise this if our foreign trade is going to expand and if Boston is to become the great port for foreign commerce that we desire her to be. Perhaps these young men of the Nantucket, now being trained in the management and operation of an American merchant marine, will come to realise it in the future if we of the present generation are so dumb as to throw away our opportunities.

Our Cheap Insurance

Senator John A. Hastings of the New York Legislature proposes that New York should have Savings Bank Life Insurance such as Massachusetts enjoys.

He has been here, looking us over.

What did he find?

He says he found that our system affords us insurance at a saving of 25 per cent.

He says he found that our policyholders who, for one reason or another, allow their policies to lapse do not suffer the loss of all they have paid in, but derive a reasonable cash-surrender value out of them.

We often lose sight of them until some intelligent visitor like Senator Hastings comes along and points them out to us.

Treating Meddlers

HERE IS a letter YOU have been meaning to write—

Dear Miss Robinson:

I do wish you would write something about meddlers and busy-bodies who come buzzing around, asking a lot of questions about your personal business. Just what are you supposed to say when they ask—for instance—what salary your husband gets . . . how much you make . . . what did your new car cost . . . do you send your family any money . . . how could you afford that new coat, etc.?

These people look me right in the eye and honestly I feel so embarrassed I could run away. I do not want to hurt their feelings and I certainly won't lie. Yet, on the other hand, I don't want to give out such personal information. Do you ever meet up with meddlers like this, Miss Robinson? And if so, what do you do?

C. F., Redwood City, Calif.

Do I meet up with meddlers? Lady, columnists seldom meet up with Anything Else But. I've had them ask me everything from diddy-great-grandpa-like-likker (I'll say he did!) to what's-my-favorite-corn-cure (snake oil, lady, applied at midnight in the southeast corner of a Chinese graveyard).

Now I'll admit that, at first, these inquiries did get me huffed up. After one of these tell-me sessions I'd sit right down and howl like a beestung pup. Why, oh why, couldn't they keep out of my affairs . . . lemme alone . . . mind their own doggone business? Thus I raved, on, and on—

But gradually I began to see that this was buying me nothing. Instead, it was putting me in the red. I was spending so much time and energy in getting peeved, that I had no time left to attend to my regular chores. And so I evolved a sort of philosophy for myself. As follows—

I decided that the world was a very large place and filled with many peculiar and unpleasant things. Such for instance. Subway crowds. Mud. Bad smells. Crooners. Tripe. Pollyannas. Guys with sticky hands and sticky eyes. Daily dozens. Vegetable plates. Marcelled males. Love starved females. Hives. And millions 'n' millions of other common nuisances.

But, of course, I didn't allow everything to get my goat. Long ago I trained myself to stand a multitude of common annoyances without busting into big, wet bleats of rage and self-pity. Flies, for example. I can face flies and swat flies without thinking that Fate has stacked the cards against me. I can feel a fly buzzing around without flushing with embarrassment or shuddering with dread.

"Then why," said I to myself, "can't you face meddlers and busybodies with equal aplomb? They're just another form of Common Nuisance. You'll find them everywhere—you'll always have to cope with them—just as you do with flies!"

AND SO I DO.

Not always, of course. They still get my goat—frequently. But generally I manage to laugh their buzzing off. Once when they fixed me with their beady eyes and hurled highly personal questions at me, I writhed with embarrassment and fear lest I affront them by showing that embarrassment. Now I am no longer embarrassed. If anyone should be embarrassed, they should be, because of their own rudeness—not I. And as for "hurting their feelings"—PEOPLE WHO ASK QUESTIONS LIKE THAT SHOULD HAVE THEIR FEELINGS HURT. AND WHY SHOULD I TRY TO RELIEVE THEM OF THE CONSEQUENCES OF THEIR OWN CUSSEDNESS?

And so now, when passing strangers want to know if I ever had warts and why I'm not married—anyone this season, why I just smile and quote the price of barley. And if they're peeved, I figure that's just their bad luck. And they brought it on themselves.

Radio Successes

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—Vagaries of radio audiences produce more heart-breaks among artists than movies or theater. So sudden are shifts in the broadcasting picture, performers may attain a sudden larore and within the year find themselves "at liberty." In the studios they warn: Don't get popular!

Many star names are signed for not more than two months. The radio performer and the especial act exploited undergo, in the majority of interests, the same process as the play or movie. There is either a short or long run and audiences demand a change.

The continuous success of Amos 'n' Andy is reputed to be due to the fact that they present a continued story with different theme every few weeks. Vallee has held the crown as crooner. But stiff opposition has developed in the broadcasts of Bing Crosby and Russ Columbo.

As the story goes, Crosby was scoring in occasional broadcasts on the coast and was offered a nation-wide hookup but could not accept it due to prior movie contracts. In the meantime Columbo, a violinist, was rushed in as a crooner and took the edge off of Crosby's style.

New York Day by Day

Floyd Gibbons, in many respects, was the most sensational of all radio mushroom discoveries. He held listeners for two years and then went off to Manchuria on the eve of the biggest contract ever signed in a new radio hookup.

He sacrificed it because of his love for roaming commissions as a war correspondent. He is a reporter first and has never been quite happy since deserting journalism. The qualities that make for radio success cannot be judged in ordinary ways.

Uncannily, it picks up obscurities —such as the Mills brothers—and elevates them to heights in a few days. Whereas great movie and stage stars often meet a wall of indifference on the air. Kate Smith, on the other hand, with bits in musical shows, becomes one of the great attractions of the air.

Wellington Cross was accosted by a beggar for a dime for coffee. "But a cup of coffee is only a nickel," said "Duke," handing the moocher a five cent piece. Accepting it, the panhandler shuffled off, but after a few steps turned and called, "You should tell me my business!"

In the smoking compartment of a Santa Fe train one summer I struck up conversation with a stranger—trivialities inspired by the tedium of travel. A lady lurching through the coaches turned in by mistake. When she saw the stranger, she clutched at her throat and he stood up, suddenly white-faced. I withdrew. That evening they sat on the observation platform in the moonlight, each at intervals wiping away tears.

The most consistent Twentieth Century commuter between Chicago and New York is John Cuneo, head of America's largest printing establishment. He frequently makes two trips a week. Gilbert Miller is the leading trans-Atlantic zealot, averaging a dozen crossings yearly.

In my travels—says he, building himself up—"it strikes me the Englishman crosses oceans or continents with greatest ease and comfort. It may be a heritage from colonizing forefathers. But somehow I suspect that magnificent calm that the Britisher alone finds in his pipe."

The most accomplished American pip smoker I know is Bob Brinkerhoff, the cartoonist. I saw him light up with one match on the windy top of the Empire building.

In a boyhood diary I found this notation: "To Mr. Cox's for two yards of best quality muslin for Grandma."

Life was an elegant adventure in those best-quality-muslin days. If only to hear Grandma say "O toot!" when annoyed.

Just Folks

Company Times

When Ma's expecting company
She gets all hot and fluttery,
And says: "Oh, me! Oh, my! Oh, dear!
Get busy now or they'll be here
Before we've swept and shined the stairs
And dusted all the parlor chairs!
Good gracious! It is half-past one,
And I've still got my apron on!"

When Ma is going to entertain
Her club, cos it's her turn again,
She sends us children out to play
And asks us kindly please to stay
An' not come runnin' in an' out
Or hang around the door an' shout.
She doesn't want her friends to see

When Ma's expecting company
The neighbors all come in to see
Just how she's fixed the parlor chairs
An' where they'll leave their wraps upstairs,
An' how the curtains drape, an' they Stand round an' talk, till Ma says: "Hey!
Get out of here. It's half past one!
An' I've still got my apron on!"

New Slant on Business and Government

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for The Boston Evening American

WE HEAR MUCH these days about there being a complete separation between Government and business, and many bitter complaints because Government interferes with business. It does. Government has certain rules regarding banking designed to protect the interest of the public, and about railroads to protect the public there, and about monopoly to prevent the wholesale robbing of the people.

And any Government that would not interest itself in these things would not be fit to live.

But it appears that those who talk the loudest against Government and business having any connection are most anxious for Government actively, and through political action, to serve the ends of business.

Just now the people are interested in knowing to what extent some business has used Government for the fleecing of the people.

* * *

Plain Truth Will Serve

When the American Government was warned against the proposed Peruvian loan, by an official of the Government whose business was to tell the truth, that the loan would be "defaulted within five years" and the investors in the bonds would "be lucky to collect ten cents on the dollar," the Government at Washington, through the department of which Mr. Hoover was the head, rebuked the honesty of this minor official and instructed him that he was expected to send in "optimistic reports."

That, we submit to any decent mind, is a shocking thing.

It made the Government an active agent in the defrauding of the American investors. Plain truth will serve.

And Government appears to have entered into business at the behest of Business in the case of the Colombian loan. The connection there between the making of a loan and the restoration by the Government of Colombia of oil concessions to the two most powerful financial groups in America is most intriguing.

The President of Colombia said that Mr. Mellon, whose family group was interested in the oil concession, gave him the impression that the loan desired hinged upon the restoration of the concession. It appears that the oil concession was restored; and that the President of Colombia gave our Minister to understand immediately afterward that because of the restoration of the concession he expected the loan.

That appears in correspondence or dispatches between the Minister and the State Department—which Mr. Stimson wishes kept from the public because "not in the public interest."

It also appears that Secretary Stimson personally interested himself in getting the loan from the bankers.

Dear me—can it be possible that Big Business and Government were playing in the same back yard? The public wants to know.

* * *

It All Works Out in the Wash

And so Business, especially the Banking Business, does not always want Government to play in its own back yard. Having made enormous private loans in Europe, the international bankers are now trying to persuade our Government to pull their chestnuts out of the fire by relieving the debtor nations of the money they owe the American Nation. That they would have our Government do by lifting the foreign debt from the backs of foreign peoples and putting it on the backs of the American taxpayers.

And how clearly it all works out in the wash.

Thus the other day Mussolini amazed us with the bland statement that the nations that owe this nation billions should simply refuse to pay—and thus transfer the debts of other nations to our own people. And then, through the Rome correspondent of the N. Y. Herald Tribune, we get an explanation:

"The mood of unusual frankness on the question of debts adopted by Italy is said to have been inspired by the opinion brought back from America by Grandi that plain speaking would be the only method of approach acceptable to the United States in any European effort to get the debts reduced."

And where did Grandi get this tip? He talked with the President and Mr. Stimson—in secret, and with the international bankers here—in secret. Did either of these, or both together, mixing government and banking business in the interest of banking business, give him the tip? We wonder.

* * *

"Government of the Banks—"

We hear much in the campaign propaganda of the President's "relief program." Relief for the financial institutions. Relief for the railroads. But no thought is given yet to the relief of million of women and children in distress. Money is great and necessary—but men are something.

The man in the street has come to believe that ours is a "government of the banks, by the banks and for the banks."

Our Alien Criminals

Why Aren't They Deported?

"Aliens who are criminals, and who are illegally in this country besides, create a condition which calls for careful consideration and remedy. No other country would permit it."

So says Mrs. Anna Tillinghast, United States Commissioner at Boston.

The trouble is they have had too much consideration and no remedy.

They disgrace their compatriots, the vast majority of whom are decent people, grateful of the opportunity of being in America, with the chance to live, work and prosper denied them elsewhere.

Well, why does America permit it?

We are told there is ample law to permit their deportation from the country whose hospitality they scorn and traduce.

If public officials were as eager to enforce the law as they pretend to be, America would be free of this scum in no time.
